t has now been a decade since Santa Rita High School has been located at 3951 South Pantano Road in Tucson, Arizona 85730. We the members of the 1978-79 yearbook staff were STRIVING TO REACH OUR GOALS by producing this tenth volume of the Eýrie. With over half of the 27 people on the staff being inexperienced it was not easy, but we all hung together and this is what we came up with. It was patiently organized by Advisor, John C. Baab and the Editor-and-Chief was Ramona St.Cyr.

Striving To Reach Our Goals

- One popular hangout for students is Meola's, which is enjoyed by Mike Phillips and Jim Tierney.
- The front of the school is occupied by "cowboys" Ron Robbins, Kevin Iverson, and Keith Molinek.
- 3 "Jock" wall usually by associating with friends.
- Last minute conversations are continued on in hallways and classroom entrances.
- Sonie Scercy, Daniele Monore, and Sandi Wilson prove eating together is sociable.
- Meditating is how some students begin their day of social activities as shown by Kay Akers.

Arriving to school on a bus prepares students emotionally for an active day.

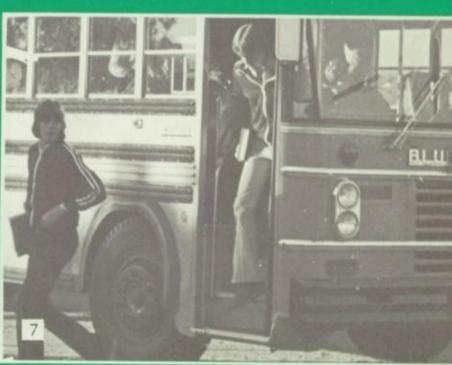

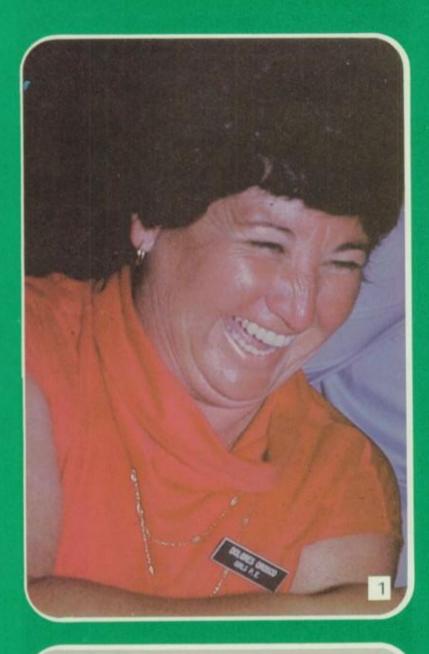

Tenth Year Crisics Students Socially Together

ocial activities are everyday sappenings for high school students, much of which takes place at Santa Rita. Football and basketball are favorites among spectators, and are also popular for social gatherings. Homecoming and Spirit Week, mark the high-lights because these two events bring the majority of students together for annual happenings.

Social life is not limited to school grounds only, much goes on off campus. Concerts and discos are favorable with students because each event has an opportunity for them to participate. Walk-in and drive-in theatres are still big favorites with teenagers.

Jobs are also a part of a students social life. They include coming in contact with other people. These and other everyday happenings are major parts of teenagers social life.

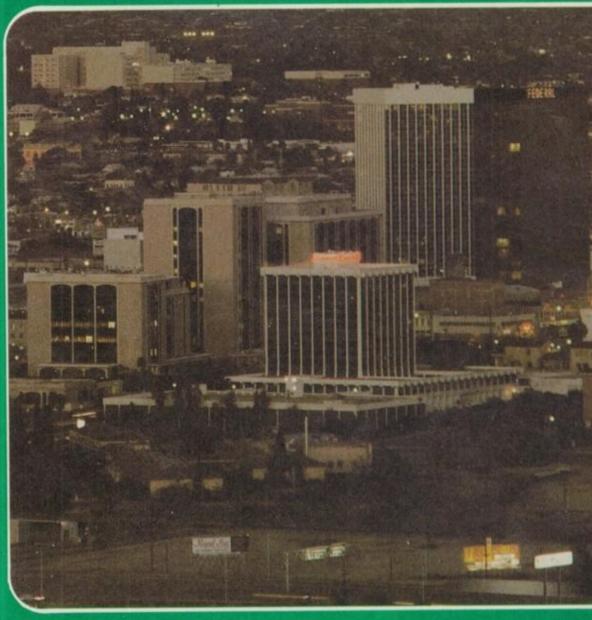

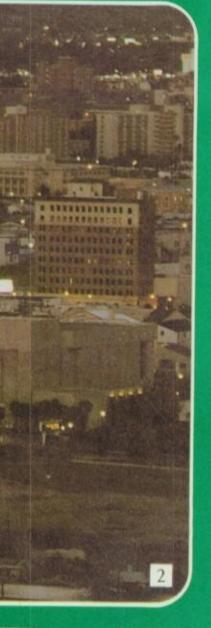

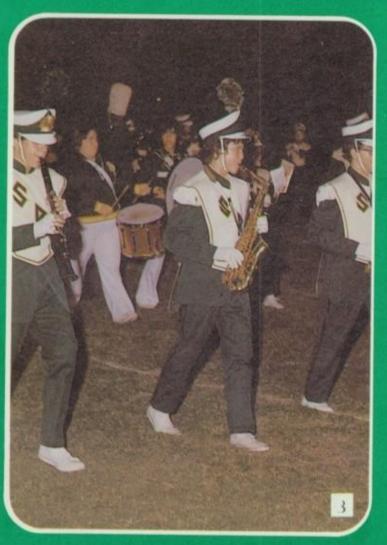

- The marching band continues to give the public superior performances.
- Tim Crowley finds lunch a welcome break from his normal routine.
- Eagles in preparation for the remainder of the game, anxiously run through the crash poster.
- 6 Speedway is one of the ugliest streets in the United States, because of sign pollution.

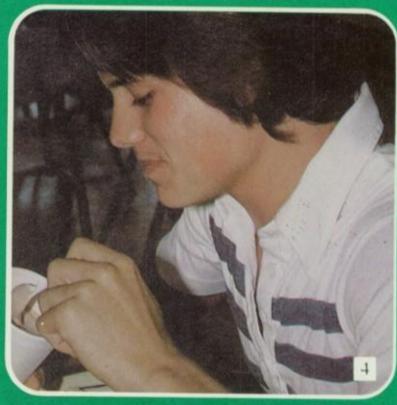

Involvement Found Through Individual Interests

tudent Life over the past year has reflected a teachers strike, a wet and muddy homecoming, the traditional dances, assemblies, spirit activities, sports competitions and much more. In reality a wealth of personalities, friendships, activities and social life revolve around school. School offers new prospects for living and learning and allows every individual to apply his involvement through his best interests.

In the following pages we hope you can sit back, read, enjoy and recall the countless memories that might have slipped away and reflect upon the trials and tribulations encountered over this 1978-79 school year.

- Snow-covered bleachers provide a silent reminder of a winter day on campus.
- A new cafeteria fills the open gap and students are now relaxing indoors and outdoors.
- 3 A six-foot chain link fence was built around Santa Rita's campus.
- The Groves shopping center is located west looking from the Santa Rita campus.
- Temporary outdoor eating is seen around school grounds before the cafeteria was built in 1973.
- 6 Before the Groves shopping center was built, a sparsely settled desert covered the area.
- Bright gold letters identifies our attractive buildings on Santa Rita's campus.

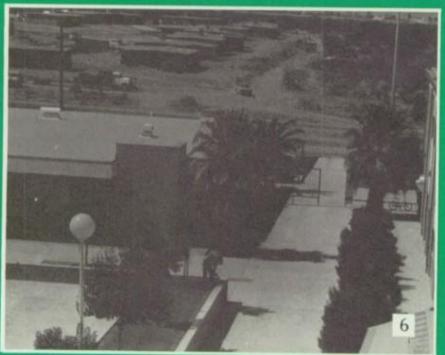

Growth Marks First Decade

anta Rita celebrated its first decade. many parts of the school were still incomplete. The school was without a cafeteria, auto shop, auditorium, and three hundred building.

body increasing, more space had to be provided.

In 1972, construction was started and a cafetewere being built. By 1973-74, all the buildings were completed.

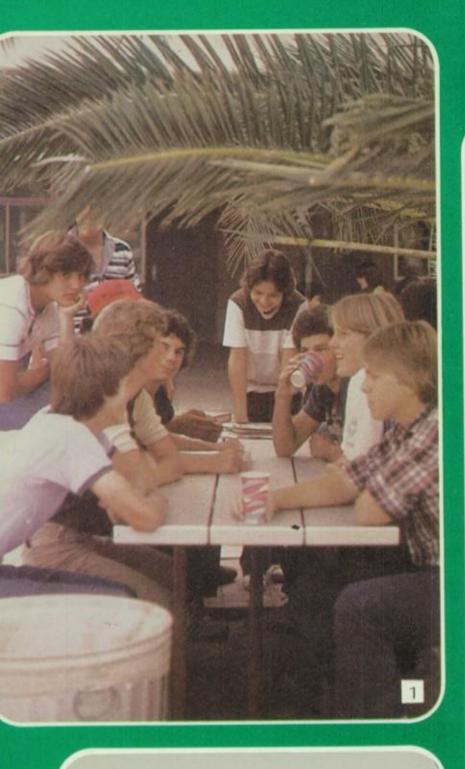

Students were happy about this new adjustment. Now students could buy their lunches in the cafeteria, and across the street at the 7-11 Store.

In 1975-76, the Groves shopping center was built across the street from Santa Rita. Many students found they liked to eat across the street for lunch because of the large variety of food. The varieties of food consist of pizza at Meola's and taco's from Car-belles.

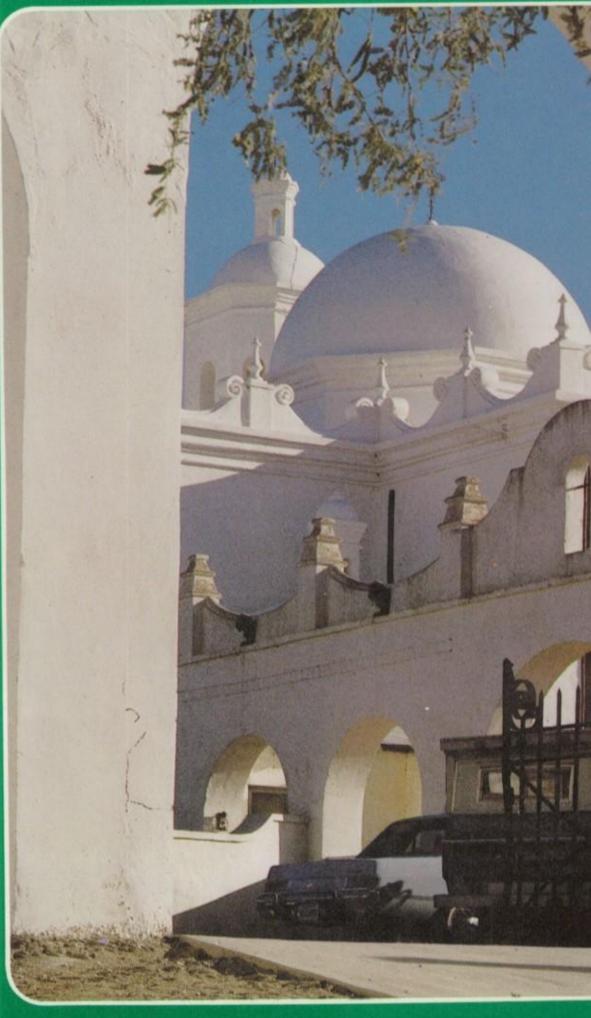

In 1977-78, the school district ordered placement of a chain linked fence around all of district #1 High schools. The purpose was to keep intruders out. Many students did not approve of that idea.

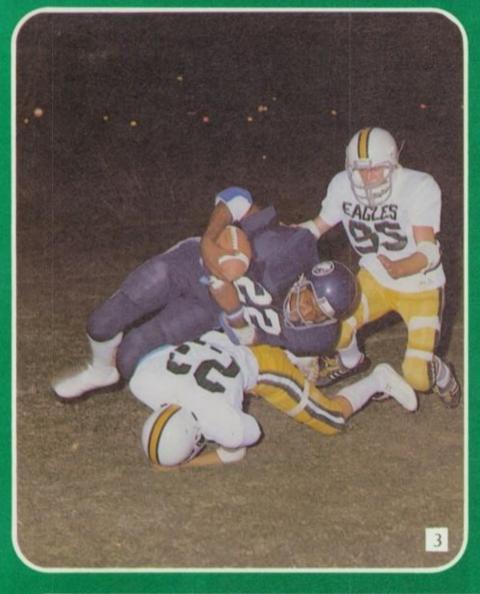

Throughout the ten years at Santa Rita, the number of students has increased from 585 in 1968 to over 2,685 students today.

Santa Rita is now bigger, better and still improving as the years go on.

- Lunch gives students the chance to socialize and relax.
- 2 The beautiful San Xavier Mission is a popular tourist attraction.
- 3 Eddie Lizarraga makes a diving attempt to tackle a Catalina running back.
- View from A Mountain of the quickly growing and changing City of Tucson.
- Dan Reid works intensively during class to complete his welding assignment.

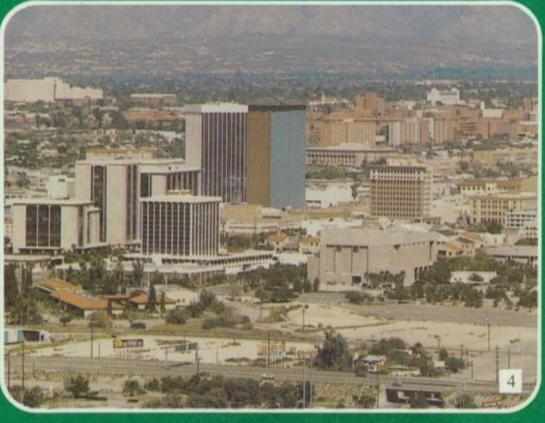

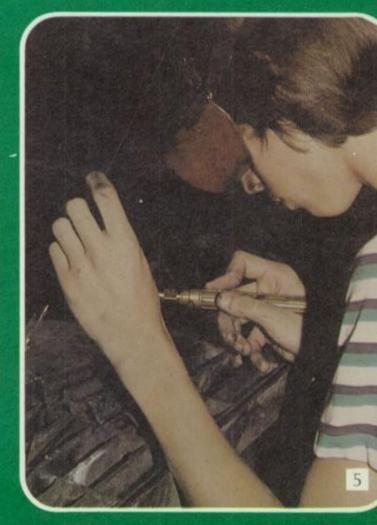

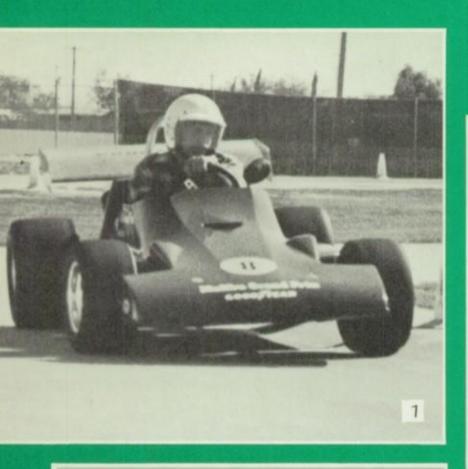

Reaching Goals Is A Continuous Process

TRIVING TO REACH OUR GOALS is a continuous process. Everyday we are confronted with new interests needing to be retained. A decade ago Santa Rita High School became a goal of the city of Tucson's eastside development plan. We were notably the smallest high school around at the time and in a matter of ten short years we have outgrown every other high school in the district.

As time carries on we will strive to accomplish our special goals in order to fulfill our needs and efforts. When we have succeeded our reward will be found in self satisfaction.

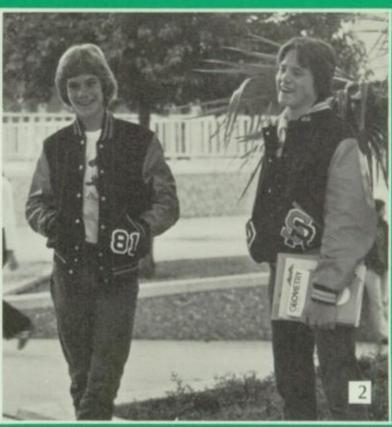

- Wes Foran and Tim Crowley wear the popular Levi's and Letterman's jackets.
- Two-piece skirt outfits worn by many students is modeled by Cindi Tavares.
- Perms have become stylish for today's look in hair as displayed.
- The popular disco and spike-heeled shoes are exhibited by Butlers' shoe store in Park Mall.
- 6 Roller skating is still an old pastime activity as demonstrated by Romney Russell.
- Tarrings have dominated the jewelry section and are replacing the popular stickpins.

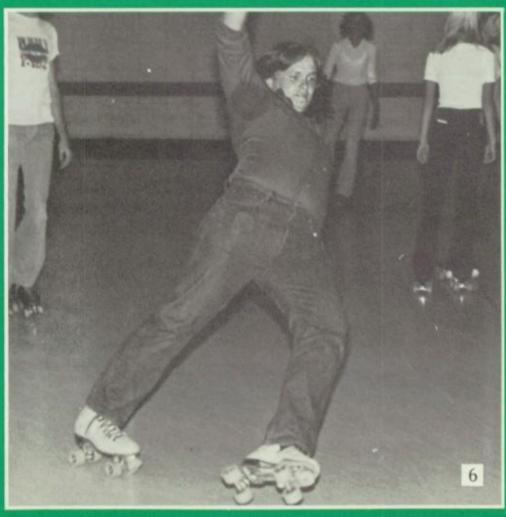

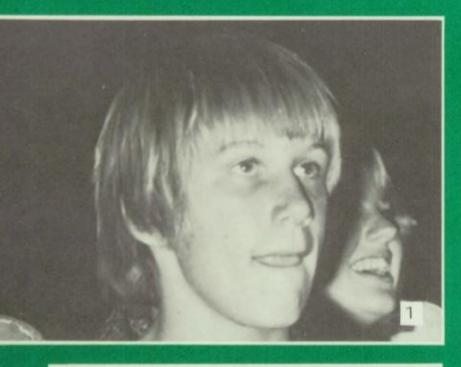

Disco Steals Fashion Scene

isco—the word in fashion this year. The impact of dance has been so tremendous that even the basic blue jean has been revamped. Sparkle and shine lit up most students wardrobe as satin and silk gained popularity. Spike heels and straight; leg satin jeans were a common site on campus. Menswear took a turn as women began to wear the bowties, baggy pants and jackets that for so long were thought of as "for men only."

Perms were back! The curly, wavey, kinkey hair of the Roaring 20's had returned. Students found that hair care was much easier, and a shake of the head was all that was needed to put hair into its proper place.

Each year students look for new things to try. For the speed enthusiast high-powered Go-Karts were the answer. Roller skating was popularized, while the disco dancing craze continued.

- Leon Pickens watches the varsity team play during a 1975-1976 home football game.
- During a game in their freshman year, Becky Brown and Laura Lehan cheer for the team.
- In his freshman English class, Steve Caputo sits in class listening carefully to a guest speaker.
- Robert Vreeland waits for a friend in the hall during a passing period in his sophomore year.
- Santa Rita's freshman girls' tennis team poses for a picture after a winning match.
- 6 Tony Manning and Terri Hicks are nominated Spirit Royalty winners of the 1975-1976 year.
- Viewing the crowd of students from the balcony between the 100 and 200 building is Ceci Miranda.

This Is It ...

ooking back on the four years we spent at Santa Rita we will tend to remember the good times. During our first year we did not have the use of the gymnasium, because the floor was damaged by rains and it required a school year of repairs.

During our Sophomore year the Groves shopping center was built. This gave us a place to go during lunch for a larger variety of food. The school cafeteria cut down on the number of sweets and added diet soft drinks to the menu.

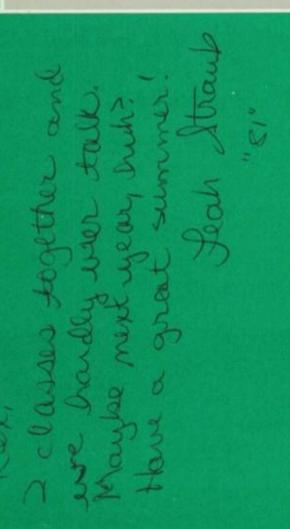

In our Senior year we finally thought we had won the float competition during homecoming, but the votes were recounted and we learned that the Juniors won and we came in second. The highlights of our year were the Prom, the Senior trip to Disneyland and the most important, Graduation.

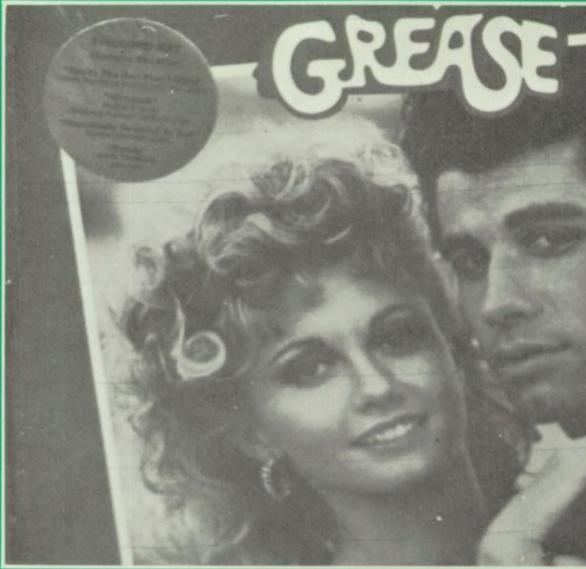

Now that our Senior year has come to an end we realize that we must look towards the future. Whether we go to college or straight into a career we find that we have grown into adults and the four years we spent at Santa Rita will be memories we can always look back on.

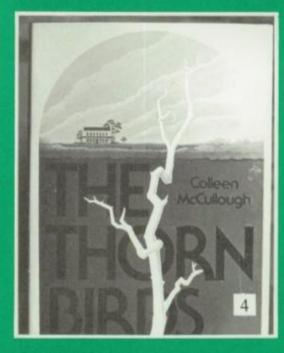

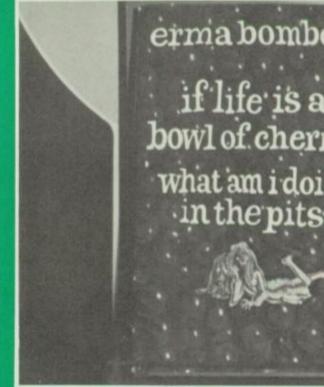

- Peter Frampton stars in "Sgt. Pepper's," a movie version of the Beatles' cartoon.
- "Grease" makes it big in 1978 with a top selling soundtrack and a hit movie.
- 3 "Animal House," starring John Belushi, has made "Toga" a household word.
- The Thorn Birds, a long time best seller, is a robust, romantic saga of the Clearys.
- Frma Bombeck describes humor around the house in this #1 best seller.
- 6 Foreigner soars to the top of the music charts with their second album, "Double Vision."
- Boston displays many talents with a top selling album, "Don't Look Back."

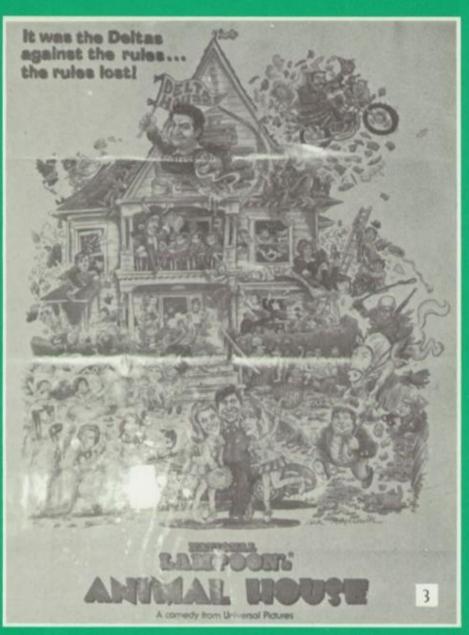

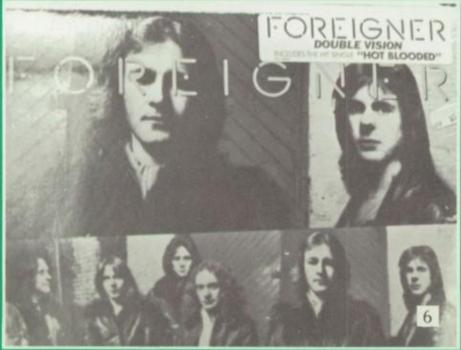

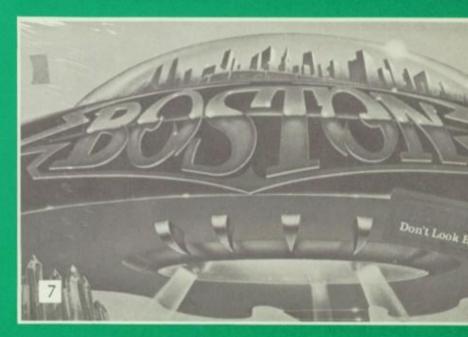

Movies A Hit With Students

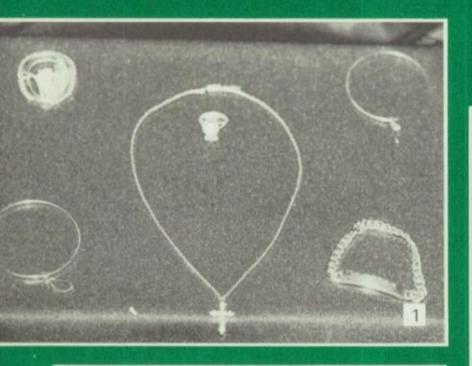

ne of student's favorite pastimes was going to the movies. The long running Broadway hit, "Grease," proved so successful, it was made into a movie starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton John. The "Grease" soundtrack climbed quickly into the Top-Ten and soon made #1 on the charts.

The 1978 season brought a variety of movies to suit anyone's taste. John Belushi, of "Saturday Night Live," starred in "Animal House," a hilarious movie about fraternity life. Cheech and Chong provided many laughs with their first movie, "Up In Smoke," while "If Ever I See You Again" brought out the tears.

Another form of entertainment was music. "Don't Look Back," Boston's second album, raced up the charts and into the Top-Ten. Foreigner also made the Top-Ten with their second album, "Double Vision."

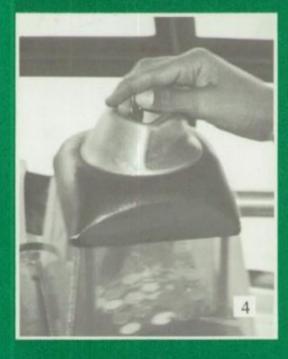

When movies and albums weren't quite enough, books were there to fill up those free hours. There were many best-sellers for students to choose from.

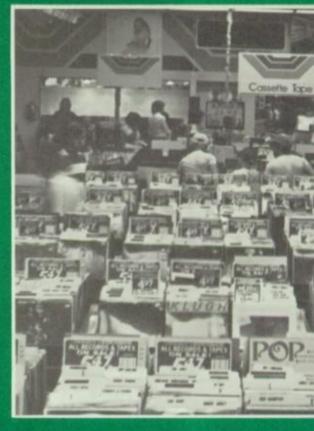

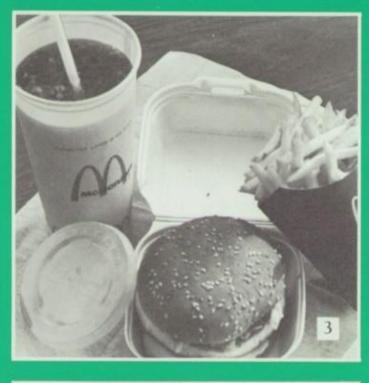

- The wide variety of imitation jewelry on the market today looks like the real thing.
- For about 60¢ per gallon of regular gas, a student fills his tank up for a big night out.
- Hamburgers, fries, and cokes are still among the favorites of junk food lovers.
- Student passengers faced with a payment of $8.00 for a bus pass or 20¢ per ride.
- The record industry increases with the new sounds of music. Albums cost $4.50 and up.
- Levi's and cords, priced between $10.00 and $15.00, plays a big role in teen wardrobe.
- Movies, the popular form of entertainment expands by catching the viewer's interest.

- 6 Sophomores display their spirit by attending the assembly held for Homecoming.
- Junior prince Guy Hudson coupled with junior princess Lorrie Peiker.
- Senior prince is Robert Vreeland escorting senior princess Candace McCoy during Homecoming.

Rain Ruins Tenth Homecoming

anta Rita reaches its first decade and still going strong! The Santa Rita Eagles were defeated by the Buena Colts 16-0 on Homecoming night, Friday October 20, 1978.

Even though we had rain, halftime was a success. In the float competition, the juniors took first place, seniors second, freshman third and the sophomores came in fourth. The Homecoming dance was held after the game from 10 p.m. to 12 p.m. with a live Disc Jockey performing.

Homecoming week was held with some unusual dress up days including Farmers day, Sex Change day and Friday was Green and Gold day. During the lunches, Student Council held activities such as the Bubble Gum Blowing contest won by the seniors during both lunches, Pie Eating contest won by the seniors during both lunches and the Root Beer Chug won by the sophomores first lunch and the freshman second lunch.

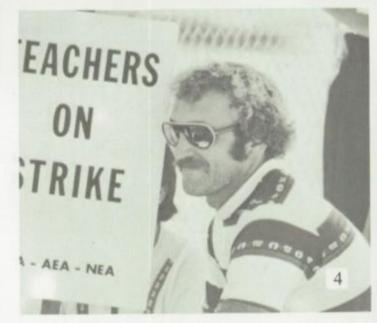

The winning King and Queen for the 1978-79 year were Tony Manning coupled with Mary Beth Crowley.

- Dave English received many honks from supporters as well as non-supporters of the strike.
- Many students did not attend classes, therefore participated in the strike.
- Mr. Reed sits around discussing matters concerning the school board.
- Mr. Pintor and Mr. Ferguson Jr. tried to escape the scorching sun during the strike.
- 6 Mr. Hudson made these hot days a little easier by bringing a chair to sit in.

"The Week That Never Was"

ne week in October occurred with enough tension to consider it "a week that never was." This week was known as the strike, the first one in Tucson Unified School District 1.

More than two thirds of the teachers district wide and approximately 90 out of a staff of 120 at Santa Rita went on strike, causing a certain amount of hostility between the teachers that did and the teachers that did not.

The strike began with teachers picketing three weeks prior to the walkout. Teachers picketed outside their school, street corners, and in front of the school board. They also wore badges bearing the slogan, "I don't want to strike but I will."

Smaller class sizes were one of the reasons for the walkout. Teachers wanted to be able to give students more help and therefore cut class size to a maximum of 25 students. Increase in pay was essential to the strike. Teachers asked for a 5.6% raise and received a 4.8% increase in pay. Experimental classes were set up in a few elementary schools to try out the smaller class sizes. Now teachers are also able to leave directly after school on Fridays and days prior to a vacation. When these agreements were made, teachers agreed not to strike within the next two years.

During the week of the strike, most teachers remained off campus sitting or standing with pickets in the scorching sun. Most students also remained off campus with some of them participating with their teachers. Others took the days off by going to Park Mall, Mount Lemmon or just staying home. Substitute teachers were hired and paid more than twice the average teachers wages. Many of them were not certified by law, but were hired due to desperation, and served merely as "babysitters."

That week in October did not count on students' permanent record, attendance was not recorded and is hoped to be forgotten by all that were involved. That was the week of the strike or better known as "the week that never was."

AWorld of Changes

World Happenings

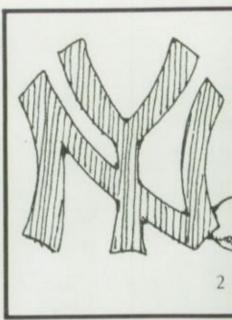

he World Series, played in October, was won this year by the New York Yankees, under unusual circumstances. It was the first time ever that a team lost the first two games, and won the next four needed to become the winner. The first two games were played in Los Angeles at Dodger Stadium, and the Dodgers were victorious in both games. The next three games were played in New York at Yankee Stadium, and the Yankees won them. The Yankees broke the tie by cleaning up at the last game, which was played in Los Angeles.

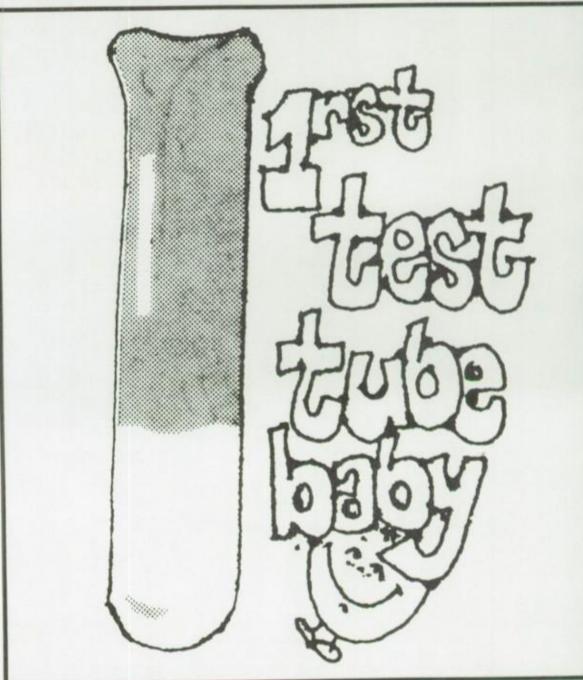

Medically, a long awaited day came on July 25. At 11:47 Louise Brown was born in Bristol, England. Her birth, in itself, was not too unusual. The miracle was that she was conceived in a test tube, and implanted into her mother's body 1½ days later. The men behind this "Medical Miracle" were Dr. Patrick Steptoe and physiologist Robert Edwards.

The objectives behind the birth of the testtube baby were to increase the understanding of birth defects and their prevention, and the treatment of infertility. This endeavor also promised a major breakthrough in embryo research. Mr. and Mrs. Brown's only objective was to have the baby they had wanted for years.

Something to affect many students this year was the change in Popes. After Pope Paul VI died, an unknown Cardinal, Albino Luciani, was elected to hold the highest office in the Catholic Church. After only 34 days in office, he died of a heart attack. His reign was the shortest since 1605, when Leo XI served just 27 days. Pope John Paul was described as having an infectious smile, and self-effacing simplicity, but he didn't have time to contribute a lot to the Catholic Church. His successor, Pope John Paul II was elected to fill the position so recently abandoned by Pope John Paul I.

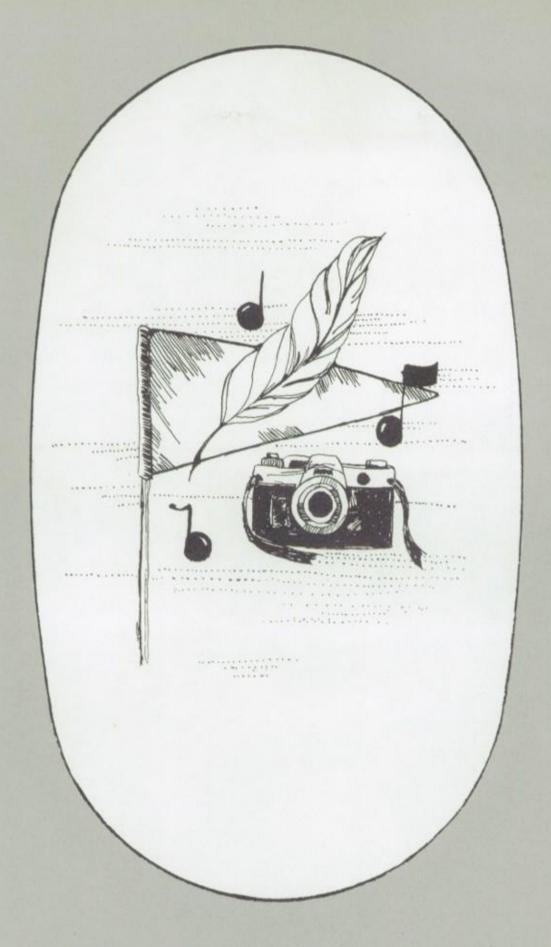

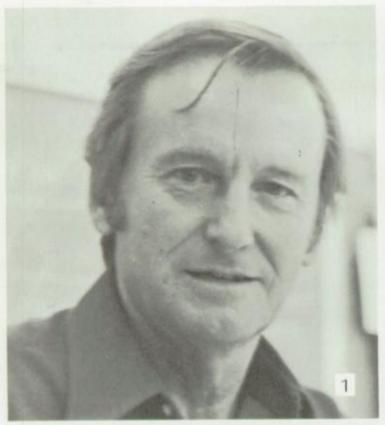

- Pope John Paul II reigned for most of the 1978-79 year, replacing Pope John Paul I.
 - The New York Yankees defeated the Dodgers by winning the tie-breaker.
- 3 Louise Brown made history by being conceived in a test tube.
 - Pope John Paul I served the second shortest term as Pope, the highest office in the Catholic Church rganizations were constantly striving to reach goals. At the beginning of the year many groups found it difficult to get funds because of districts proposal prohibiting the selling of sweets. This proposal was causing several organizations, clubs and classes to go into debt. The district finally discarded their proposal and allowed candy sells.

Organizations

The organizations around Santa Rita kept up the school spirit, by giving concerts, holding meetings and competing for various awards.

Leaders Promote

he purpose of Student Council was to train student leaders the various aspects of student government, to promote a better understanding of democratic principles, to stimulate student participation, and promote school unity, tradition and scholarship.

Student Council consisted of four student body officers, four class presidents, vice presidents, and secretaries, and sixteen councilpersons. Together these student leaders sponsored events like Homecoming, Turkey Day, Spirit Week, the Spring Carnival and a two week "Trash Stash."

Advisor, Avery Miller lead the council in problem solving, and in seeing that the duties of each officers were carried out.

N.H.S., A Reward For

Achievement

N ational Honor Society's 75 members kept going strong this year with the help of its co-advisors, Mary Carr and Kathy Dornan.

The requirements for membership are a 3.4 grade average or better, evidence of service to school and community, leadership qualities, and demonstrated good character. All of these are taken into consideration when new inductees are being chosen. Character is judged by the entire faculty. A picked committee screens prospective N.H.S. members for service and leadership.

Involvement in community projects was one of the main objectives of the N.H.S. members. Two Red Cross blood drives were held at Santa Rita sponsored by N.H.S. In November, Arizona college visitation days were held. The members served as hosts for this and other events such as parents night, Freshman orientation, and preopening of school orientation. Tutoring students and working at the high school and junior high registrations were also included in the society's busy schedule.

The N.H.S. officers were Mike Haws, President; Tina Scott, Secretary; and Karen Honn, Treasurer.

Quill And Scroll

A Journalistic Honor

uill and Scroll is an honorary organization for outstanding journalism students on both the yearbook and newspaper staffs. Other requirements were that one must be in the upper third of one's class and be at least a second semester sophomore. There were thirteen inductees: eight seniors, three juniors and two sophomores. The nine inductees from yearbook were Julie Conway, Judi Schnieder, Jenifer Jarvis, Isabell Price, Diane Lee, Ramona St. Cyr, Kim Rowley, Kate Preble and Lauren Kocis. The four members from newspaper were Lynn Bowen, Lisa Welch, Jean Grady and Debbie Harrold. The only returning members were Diane Lee, Kim Rowley and Ramona St. Cyr. Advisors of this organization were John C. Baab and Michael Fox.

Students are selected to join the Quill because of their excellent work in journalism. Newly inducted members receive gold badges, a membership card and a one year subscription to Quill and Scroll magazine. This organization is participated in by over 10,000 schools across the world.

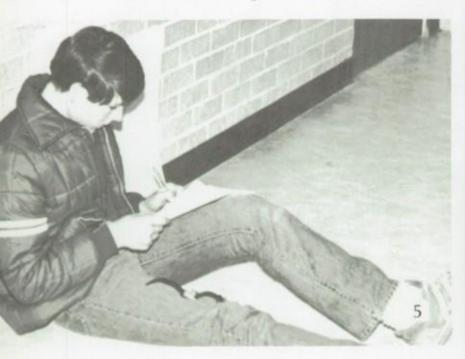

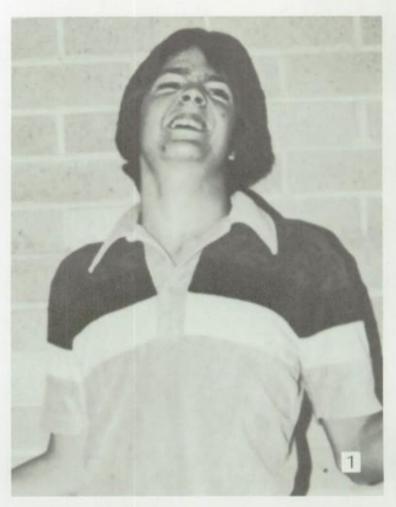

Outstanding Chapter In Arizona

F or the first time in this school's history, the National Forensic League has named Santa Rita outstanding chapter in the state. To be the outstanding chapter, a school must have the highest number of degrees in the state.

Degrees are based on a point system. Members can earn points at every tournament through debate or individual events, with the highest degree being the double ruby. Earning the double ruby requires a student to be in speech four years competing in debate which is the highest point event, and other individual entries such as, extemporaneous, impromptu speaking, and interpret.

The advisor, Kathy Ramage-White, stated she would like to see more students earning the double ruby. While this honor is the hardest to achieve, students strive harder and dedicate more time to reach this goal.

Thespians Strive To Unite Fine Arts

ver the year, the Thespians have been one of the most active groups at Santa Rita. Thespians was like an Honor Society for drama students, and in order to become a member, you had to have at least one year of beginning drama and one half year of Advanced Drama.

The main goal Thespians strived to accomplish was to unite the Fine Arts Department and make people aware of their productions.

The Thespians raised money for the Mime and Drama classes by selling bumper stickers, pens, candy and by holding car washes and bake sales.

The organization for actors and actresses was where members accumulated points and received awards for outstanding work in drama class.

The highlight of the year was the March of Dimes Haunted House. The Thespians participated in everything from playing ghouls to decorating the haunted house in the La Placita.

Superior Rating Achieved By Band

When the Santa Rita Golden Eagle Marching Band, under the direction of Drum Major Mark Lummus, took the field at football games, all eyes were watching, all ears listening.

The marching band participated in many activities this year. They performed at all football games, marched in the Veteran's Day and Rodeo parades and received a well earned Superior rating at the University of Arizona's Band Day.

After football season, the marching band changed uniforms and became the Santa Rita Symphonic Band. They put on Christmas and Spring concerts, competed in the All-City Band Festival, and the ASU music festival in Tempe.

The bands's fund raising activities included car washes, and a cheese sale. The band funds were spent on such things as bike hikes, and the trip to Tempe for the annual music festival.

The band officers for the 1978-79 school year were Julie Lancaster, President; Tracy Sullivan, Vice President; Sharon Laner, Secretary; and Kim Collins, Publicity Chairman.

Much of the band's inspiration comes from band director Laszlo Veres. When asked what he would like his students to remember after they graduate, he stated, "They should never put up with mediocrity, only the best, which can only come from dedication and hard work."

The Santa Rita Band ended the 1978-79 school year by playing Processional and Recessional at graduation.

ith over 184 members, the Vocal department was one of the largest groups in the school. Mr. Wallace Long, for the fifth year, directed the Vocal department consisting of Advanced Mixed Choir, Ensemble, Advanced Womens Choir, Beginning Boys, and Beginning Girls Choirs.

The Ensemble, made up of singers chosen by Long from the aforementioned groups, performed more than 30 times during the year. Some of these performances were for various civic organizations, and others were concerts given at Santa Rita.

Advanced Mixed Choir had 53 members, all of whom had previous vocal instruction. The Advanced Mixed Choir was granted money for new outfits. The new attire consisted of black tuxedos for the men, and floor length peach colored gowns for the women. "We feel very fortunate to have been granted the money for these new outfits," stated Bill Vogel, Vocal department President, "they not only gave the performers more confidence and class, but the outfits also placed them among the best dressed high school performers in Tucson."

A Vocal department member stated, "We had a great deal of success at our performances. The audiences really seemed to enjoy themselves, and we had a lot of public support."

The officers for the 1978-79 school year were Bill Vogel, President, Julie Poremba, Vice president, Ann Pernett, Secretary, Verlynne Mattingly, Treasurer, and Holli Johnson, Publicity Manager.

Orchestra Introduces New Musical Styles

olding concert performances that promoted spirit among the student body and introducing different and enriching styles of music, were the main functions of the chamber orchestra over the year.

The organization consisted of 30 members, which met first period every day. In the hour provided the musicians strived to reach goals that helped them prepare for public performances.

Although the orchestra was not as large as it has been in the past, the group worked long hours to expand their musical quality. With individual achievements being sought and then carried out, the orchestra was able to successfully complete the year after appearing in four major concerts.

Director, Norman Clark summed up his feelings towards the group by stating, "The orchestra was talented as well as very organized and performed one of the best Christmas concerts Santa Rita has had in a long range of time."

The officers over the year were President Holly Lyon, Vice President Dana Holloway, Secretary Donna Treadway, Treasurer Chip Gute, Public Relations Kevin Keith.

A n organization that helped students train for business jobs was Cooperative Office Education.

Jane Weston, the coordinator for C.O.E. taught 25 senior students the importance of clerical work, by having them work with various typing, filing and office machine skills.

To be a member of C.O.E., students had to have completed some type of a business class and had to receive a teacher's recommendation.

Students then were assigned various paying jobs which helped develop methods of becoming a good employee.

The speech team ended an ambitious year after a large majority of the members received certificates and special recognition for outstanding presentations in debate, oral interpretation and humorous speeches.

Requirements for speech were that students participate in speech activities and have at least a C average. The advisor in charge of aiding students and making sure requirements were met, was Kathy Ramage-White.

Several speech members stated being on the team helped them gain the ability to express feelings with confidence and converse with ease.

The Mime Company, consisting of 16 students, has been busy this year. The main project, a children's show, was seen by about 10,000 children in different schools throughout Tucson. Mime also appeared on television, and performed for about 20 schools, including the Arizona School for the Deaf and Blind. They also appeared at the State Thespian Convention. In the spring, a large performance was given.

The 29 members of Advanced Drama, all of whom completed Beginning Drama last year, worked on several productions. The Diary of Anne Frank, performed in November, was the first play of the year. During December and January, Advanced Drama was kept busy working on one act each of Chamber Music and T.V., and the full length production of Tartuffee. Later in the year, Harvey, and The Time of Your Life were performed.

Many people felt that both the Mime and Drama members looked like experienced performers. Karen Husted, advisor, said, "We are looking like a very experienced and seasoned group." The new talent in both of these groups was responsible for at least part of this seasoned look. "In both Mime and Advanced Drama last year, we were working with a great deal of new talent. I am pleased to see how the new students responded to the hard work and dedication that these two groups demand," concluded Husted.

P racticing took up much of the poms summer time. They practiced in June, July, and August to be ready for the first game.

They held many fund raising events, such as a swap meet where they sold things such as clothes, jewelry, records and other odds and ends. They also had a bake sale and car wash. The selling of mums and boutonnieres at Homecoming helped them to pay for accessories.

At the homecoming game the poms from last year were reunited by coming back to cheer for the homecoming game.

The poms consisted of ten Seniors and two Juniors. The poms participated in Band Day and received a superior rating. Becky Brown was head pom over the year, and Alice Drudge advised them.

Cheers Rated Superior At Band Day

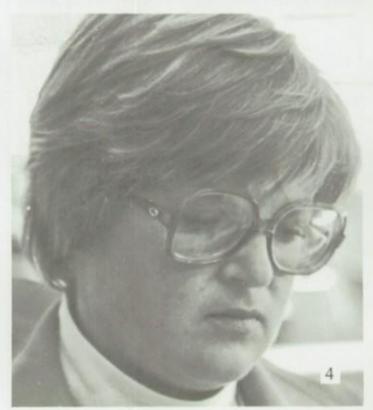

ompetition for a cheerleader is great. First, a cheerleader must have spirit. Spirit is essential to keep a crowd going whether the team is winning or not. Physical ability is of great importance to the modern cheers which include mid-air splits, kicks, and a lot of jumping. Most important in becoming a cheerleader is having motivation. This is needed when cheerleaders have to entertain impatient crowds in cold or wet weather or when their team is losing immensely. Girls with these qualities often encourage the spectators to join in the action even though they are not on the team.

Eight out of approximately 45 girls were chosen to be cheerleaders. They were: Melody Mayer, Lisa Meyer, Laura Lehan, Lisa Clark, Beth Mooney, Belinda Segura, Kathy Hanks, and Barbara McDermott who was captain.

On Band Day, the cheerleaders received a superior rating after competing against 40 other schools cheerleaders. They were judged by University of Arizona cheerleaders on two of their own cheers and two that were taught to them by the judges.

Being a cheerleader is not only stiff competition, but also takes a dedicated "spirit leader" to excite any kind of crowd in any condition.

ore than 60 hopeful sophomore and junior girls tried out for Junior Varsity Cheerleading this fall. Tryouts were held September 26-28. Patty Shallcross, the advisor of J.V. cheerleading, and a panel of judges picked six girls to represent Santa Rita. In choosing the J.V. cheers they looked for cooperation, leadership, group dynamics and enthusiasm. The J.V. cheers for this past year were junior Dorie VanNimWegen and sophomores Rudann Hanks, Betty Palacios, Kelly Poremba, Kate Preble and Gretchen Wisecarver. They practiced on Tuesday's and Thursday's for an hour or two. Patty Shallcross stated, "They have done a superb job! and demonstrated initiative and cooperation."

The twirlers practiced hard on making up their own routines to fit with the music played by the Marching Band. The head twirler, Becky Butler, became a twirler her freshman year and was made head twirler her sophomore year. The two new twirlers this year were freshmen Melanie Cremeans and Mary Kovach. To become a twirler you need skills, pride in your school, and willingness to give up your extra time for practice. Becky Butler stated, "They have all showed a fine performance."

Talon Improves

The Talon staff which consists of 17 members is striving for their Class A paper. When a newspaper is given a First Class rating, the features, news articles, artwork, and photography are all of top quality. The Talon received a Second Class rating last year.

The staff feels the paper has improved tremendously in the past year which proves to be favorable for the "judgement day". When asked about what improvements were needed, the reply was that achieving consistency in every issue was the most difficult problem. This included type set and print style which usually varied from article to article. A second improvement was that more feature stories were needed. School news was not frequently emphasized because when the paper came out, students were usually already informed of such happenings. Well written articles were also needed to capture the students' interest. Talon advisor, Michael J. Fox, commented on this by saying, "Some parts of the Talon, as any newspaper, are not read by the school population. Mostly though, people read any area that they are interested in. Many students say that the paper is trash, and that they do not read it, but when the Talon is given out, I find those same students reading it in class and in the hallways." Despite the lack of interest in some areas, the Talon staff still constructs quality stories and sends out 3000 copies a month.

Marks Tenth Year

hroughout the year we noticed that there were four main words used in our yearbook terminology. First of all the staff learns about DEADLINE; this is the day when the staff crowds around the typewriters, and everyone seems to be busy cropping, writing, stamping and yelling. This is also the time when the editor gets up for the traditional deadline speech or threat depending on how late in the year it is.

Second, is the STAFF which is the reluctant group who is responsible for doing the main body of the work. They are the ones who write copy, put together the pages, and complain that the photographers don't have their pictures. Staffers hate deadlines.

Third is the PHOTOGRAPHERS constantly being asked for pictures and more pictures. Photographers also hate deadlines and at times the staff.

Fourth is the EDITOR; she is the one responsible for everything! The word "everything" includes checking for errors, sending pictures back, reading copy, and preparing pages for mailing. It also refers to all the work done during lunch, after school, in the middle of the night, and in between classes. The editor has to meet deadlines, respect the photographers and love the staff.

Besides these four words it is common knowledge among all yearbook staffers, that words cannot possibly describe all the time involved in this yearbook. It has to be special, especially our tenth one, it has to be right, and it has to be on time. Thanks to all the time put in by a hardworking staff, a patient advisor, and an editor that never quit, we did it!

Providing photographs for the Year-book and Newspaper was the main objective of the Photo Publications class. Students were assigned photo orders, which after being shot, they developed the film and sized the requested photos. The photos were then given to either the Yearbook or Newspaper.

Photo Pub had a new system for grading orders, pictures were ranked on five points of importance; contrast, composition, cleanliness, focus, and the limitations of the assignment. The staff consisted of an editor, photo coordinator, and 18 photographers, six of which were returning from last year.

The editor, Nancy Brown, assigned photo orders to the photographers, the staff then handed Brown contacts and negatives and she filed them. The photo coordinator, Isabell Price, worked with both Yearbook and Pub. Price took photo orders from Yearbook and gave them to the Photo Editor. Then she received the finished prints and returned them to the Yearbook staff.

To be a member of Photo Pub each student must have completed nine weeks of Graphic Arts, one year of Advanced Photography, and the permission of the advisor, John Baab.

Creativeness Makes Quill A Success

ntering into its fourth year of publication the Quill Arts Magazine offers students the opportunity to have their creative talents published. The magazine is put out once a year in the Spring. The staff consisted of ten students, an editor, Carrie McCartan and the advisor, Elaine Caret. They met before and after school to look over the poetry, artwork, photography and short stories that were submitted. Both faculty and students were eligible to submit their works.

Fund raising played a large part in the Quill staff's work. A popcorn ball sale was held over Halloween week. Over 200 popcorn balls were made and sold at 25¢ each. An ugly teacher contest was also planned.

lubs were striving to reach new goals, by organizing interesting and funfilled activities.

In order to become a club, interested students had to fill out an application and develop an applicable constitution. Then they had to determine the clubs purposes, name, and meeting place, as well as elect officers and find a Santa Rita teacher willing to serve as a sponsor.

The only new organization out of 26 clubs chartered was the auto club.

Members Find Bowling a Fun Activity

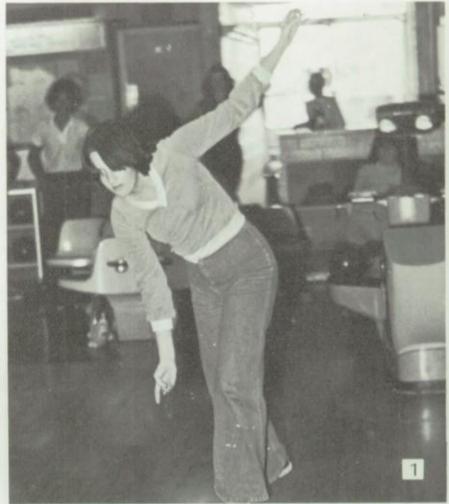

The purpose of the Bowling Club was to teach beginners how to bowl and improve the skills of the more experienced bowlers. The club met once a week on Wednesdays at 3:30, at Tucson Bowl. There were twelve teams with four people on each team. Members paid two dollars a week for bowling lane fees and trophies.

A total of four hundred dollars was spent on the trophies handed out at the end of the year. To be eligible for a trophy, students had to comply with all the rules and regulations of the American Junior Bowling Congress and had to have bowled one half of the number of games played.

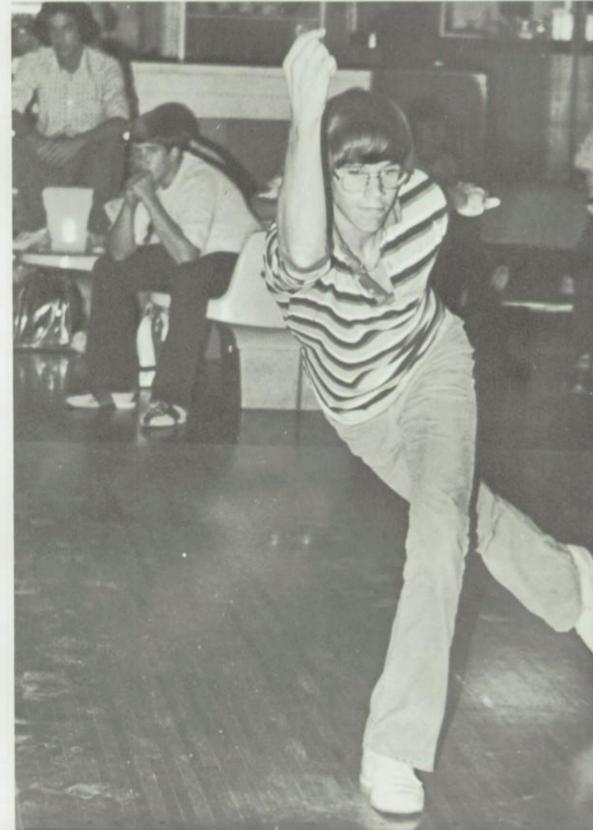

This years officers were John Smith, President; Becky Ross, Vice President; Jenny Fox, Secretary; and Cecilia Garcia, Treasurer.

Fund Raising a Necessity For Clubs

dvisor Deborah Formo stated, "This year's chess club did better this year than previous years." The club provided an opportunity for students to improve their chess game. The students practiced at regular afternoon meetings and competed among their teammates for individual standings. They also competed against other district one schools and in tournaments such as the Arizona Junior Chess Championship in Phoenix. Club members earned their entry fees by having candy sales, bake sales and car washes. Chess club officers include Robert Pittman, President; Russell Pittman, Vice President; Jon Thurston, Secretary; and Charles Smith, Treasurer. Clubs Gain Popularity

BLA, the future business leaders of America club, allows students interested in business leadership to meet, discuss, and observe various aspects of the business world. Along with meeting every Thursday, the 15 members of FBLA involved themselves in numerous community projects such as the March of Dimes Haunted House. Jane Devereaux, the club advisor, stated, "I can honestly say that all the members learned skills that are important to succeeding in the business world." Helping Devereaux were Mark Kautzman, president; Robert McClelland, Vice President; Melodie McClelland, Secretary; and Ramona Martin, Club Reporter.

As for next year, Devereaux said, "I encourage any student who wishes to become more involved in learning about the business world to join FBLA next year."

Santa Rita's DECA club is a member of the National Distributive Education Clubs of America. The organization's purpose is to promote leadership development, vocational understanding, civic conciousness, and social intelligence, as stated by the club's advisor Mary Barnhart. One way the club develops skills is by arranging interviews for jobs at local businesses, all of the 95 DECA members eventually have jobs at these businesses.

Serving as President this year was Lynn Bowen; Mike Bossie, Vice President; Terri Merino, Treasurer; Kathy McIntyre, Secretary; Tanya Frazier, Parliamentarian. Of the students in DECA the club helps them broaden their knowledge, and meet their personal goals.

Cultural Events Stressed by Clubs

S elling Mexican food at the Spring Carnival, holding car washes and having bake sales were activities done by the Spanish Club members, to help raise money for the club.

"The club's goal was to increase membership and become aware of cultural events associated with the Hispanic world," stated the Spanish club advisor, Venturo Pintor.

The trip to Nogales held at the end of the year was the club's most important event.

Pretzels and candy sales along with car washes and paper and can collecting were activities sponsored by the twenty-three German club members to raise money for the club.

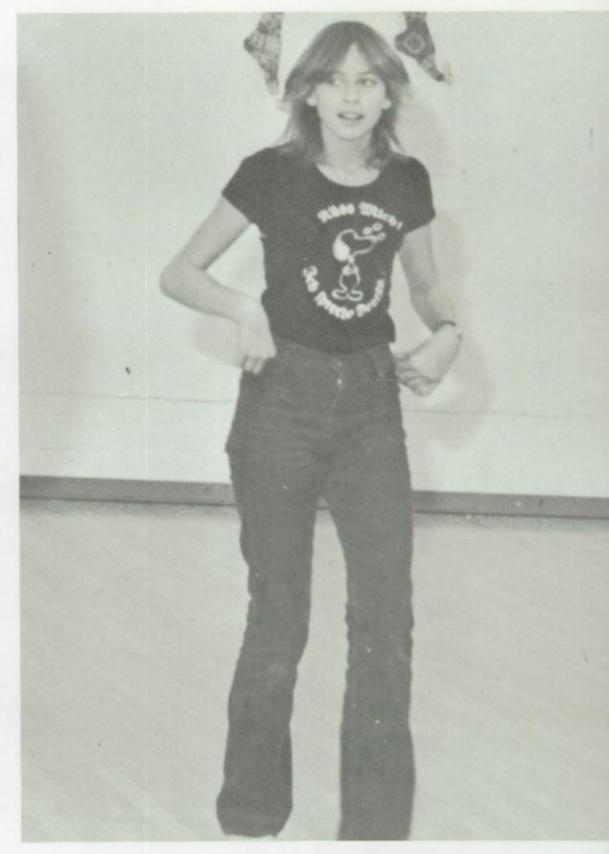

Prior to Christmas they sold Advent Calendars and Ginger Bread Houses. The Ginger-Bread Houses were custom made by students and ranged in price from four dollars on up with the more expensive ones taking more time and effort.

One main event was when they went to Devon Gables Rest Home before Christmas to sing Christmas carols and bring them cookies and fruit.

Our main goals are to get more people involved. We would like to teach them about our culture, styles, food and also German folk dances," states German club advisor Dora Mitchell.

Their most important event was the student exchange program, which was held from April 1st to the 20th. Students from Germany would attend school, tour Tucson and the Grand Canyon with students from Santa Rita. There were twelve Santa Rita students hosting German students.

tribute to Martin Luther King was the highlight of activities for the Black Cultures Club. With the help of advisors John Powers and Harriet Johnson, the club presented the tribute at places such as Davis-monthan AFB, Pima Community College, and several other sites to give maximum exposure to the community.

To be a member of the club, one must participate in all activities and be issued a special membership card. Among this years activities, the Black Cultures Club sponsored a Parent Orientation Night, a field trip to see the movie "The Wiz" in which 85 students participated, and a stage show and disco at the Spring Carnival.

This years President was Regina Barrow, Vice President was Glenda Fultz, Ceddy Wright held the position of Treasurer, Secretary was Lisa Davis, and Jackie Fultz was Corresponding Secretary.

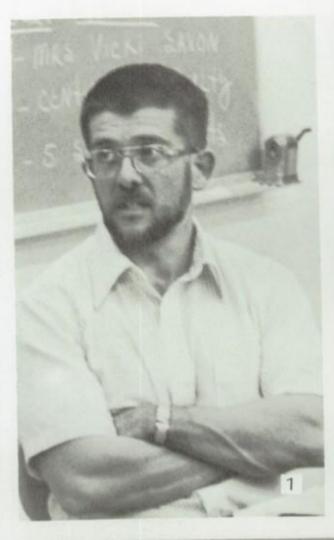

Model U.N. Attempts To Solve World Problems and under the supervision of Dr. Ken Radbill was a club designed to help students get interested in the problems of the world. The 14 members of the group did research and had discussions in order to get ready for a statewide meeting. The members were assigned different countries and they were to solve the problems of that country. The problems they were faced with were economics, politics, natural resources, and population growth. At regional meetings the club's members got all the information they could on their prospective countries. Then at national meetings the countries problems were debated.

To become a member of the Media Club the requirements were very simple, the only requirement was to have an interest in some aspect of filmmaking or television. All of the media class students were members, the main idea of the Media Club was to promote interest in media. They worked with video tape machines and cameras, all the equipment used for making movies and commercials. The club reviewed television shows and pointed out mistakes and ways to improve the shows.

Graphic Clubs Grow In Experience

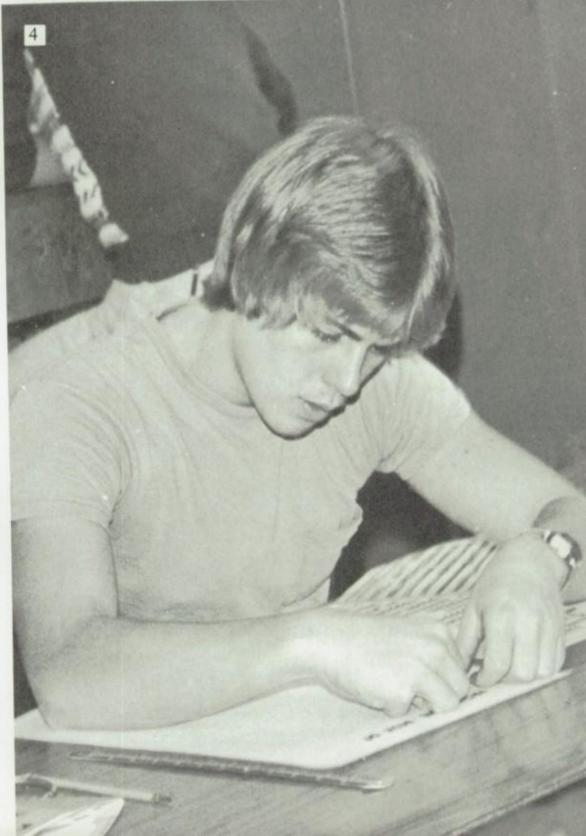

The Photo Club was an association of 11 members. John Baab was the sponsor of the club which met weekday afternoons at 2:45. The members came in after school to work on photo projects. Students who participated in the Photo Club were able to develop skills and were given the opportunity to explore some aspects of photography that would not be covered in class. Members that were active in Photo Pub were able to work on their assignments and appreciated the allowance of the Photo room and equipment.

The Ben Franklin Club was for people who were interested in printing and printing production. The club consisted of 13 members who raised money by accepting jobs that required Choir and Drama programs, and Graduation schedules. They sold silk screened tee-shirts at the Spring Carnival. The group also printed all announcements, failure, and parent notices.

This was the only new club added to the previous active clubs. To become a charted organization the club had to submit an application, devise a constitution and be educationally defensible. They then had to seek an advisor, get student council approval and receive final consent from the school administration.

The club consisted of ten members and the advisor was Vaughn Croft. To become an eligible member of the club, students had to have a broad knowledge in auto mechanics, satisfactory citizenship and had to be enrolled in the advanced automotive class.

The motto of the club's chapter was "Learning to Live in a Technical World" and the organization's colors were scarlet, white and navy blue.

The elected auto club officers who served and led the club members were President, Mark Chapman; Vice President, Roger Metsh; Secretary Paul Smith; Treasurer, Joe Beland; Reporter, Chris Jobst; and the Sargent at Arms was John Tullous.

Hiking Club Gets in Step

Since people became more concerned about their health, hiking became more popular among high school students. Exercise coupled with the fresh air and peacefulness of the mountains proved an excellent way to become physically fit. These students came together under the guidance of Mike McKinney and Larry Rogge for their second year.

"Getting away from civilization and people" was a popular reason for hiking as one club member Loren Smeltzer stated. Elizabeth Cheeseman, another club member, agreed when she said, "I enjoy getting away from the city, and we always have a lot of fun."

The group went on hikes, ranging anywhere from 3 to 20 miles. During Rodeo vacation the club hiked to the Huachuca Mountains from Parker Canyon Lake. The hike took a total of three days and two nights. Most excursions were in Tucson areas such as Sabino Canyon, Bear Canyon, the Catalinas, Rincons and Chiricawa Mountains.

SPORTS

he sports season started with several changes from last year. Three new teams were added, the girls' JV track, basketball and a girls' cross country team. The addition of the new teams proved successful in striving to reach their goals.

The football had an improved season. The girls' softball team, and the boys' basketball, cross country, and track teams made it to the state playoffs.

It was a successful year in sports. All the teams strove to reach their goals.

PREPARATION FOR SEASON MARD WORK

Bob Vreeland

The two coaches felt that the leaders of the team were Scott Calderwood, because he is a hard worker, and Bob Vreeland, also because he is a hard worker. Bob Vreeland, who has been on the Varsity team for two years felt that the team played well together. When he was asked what he thought of the coaches he simply said, "The coaches were great." Vreeland also feels that Santa Rita will do well in competition.

Coach Kurtz was asked how he felt the team would do in competition just before the season started. He stated, "We should be strong defensively because we have a lot of experienced seniors starting." He feels coaching is "both a real pleasure and a challenge. The pleasure is in working with a neat group of young men who work hard to prepare themselves for the coming season. The challenge is in trying to put together a program that offers a chance for self-improvement." Coach Ganas was asked why he likes to coach and his reply was, "It can be rewarding, but it can also be frustrating so I have to like it." Ganas works mostly with the pitchers. They work on things like wind-ups, pick-offs, curves, and change-ups for their technique. He felt that conditioning was the most important thing. When he was asked how he felt Santa Rita would do in competition he also said that we should be strong defensively. Ganas has voluntarily been coaching for Santa Rita for 3 years at the Varsity level.

he junior varsity baseball team consisted of twenty members and two coaches. Coach Armando Anaya has coached for eight years and felt he would continue coaching. Coach Vahlley's first year at Santa Rita was filled with assisting in coaching JV baseball. He felt coaching had a lot to offer him and was satisfied with his performances. He replied, "I like working with this group of young men. They are eager to work hard and are willing to win."

The team players were chosen on potential, ability and characteristics of possible development. They practiced the basic fundamentals such as hitting, throwing, and catching. They also practiced on sprints and fielding.

The team had a good defense. Coach Anaya stated, "I think we will do good on the defending side. But without improving on our batting we won't get too far. It is too early to really commit myself to what is going to happen, anything still can."

Coach Anaya felt the competition was going to be tough. "I think we should have a freshman program here at Santa Rita. It would really help. Every time we play another team in the city they have an advantage over us. Most other JV teams consist of sophomores and juniors, ours consists of sophomores and freshmen since we don't have a freshman program."

Sophomore Michael Graham played outfield. He felt the team would do good if they practiced harder. He also felt the team needed several improvements, one of them being batting.

Sophomore Timothy Fernandez enjoyed being on the team. He said he liked the sport because it was an individual effort as well as a group effort. He also thought they would do good.

The team practiced five days a week for two hours a day. They also practiced during vacation.

n undefeated season," was the answer from Coach Ernie Sykes when asked about the Freshman football team's goal this year. The Coaches, Sykes and Jay Hildebrant, tried to achieve this by stressing the basics. This was accomplished by the defensive team doing wind sprints, belly flops and drills on the 7-man sled. The offense developed their skills by working on handling the ball. All this was done to develop what Coach Sykes called a "fundamentally sound team." Helping to develop the team were the two captains, John Speers and Chris Bowles. Chris was the he gymnastics team was a new and exciting experience for all. The team had three returning lettermen, two of which represented Santa Rita last year, and 13 new gymnasts.

The team worked for 2 to 2½ hours every day to prepare routines for upcoming meets. The first meet was held on March 1st at Santa Rita, against Amphi.

"This season, we can look forward to outstanding individual performances by all around, Renee Demers, Barbara Reik, and Patti Spira and exceptional vaulting by Jackie Fultz," stated coach, Joan Aufterheide.

Renee Demers

Barbara Reik

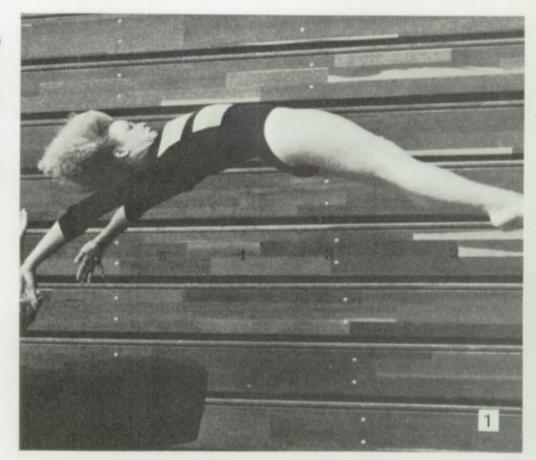

When sophomore Renee Demers was asked what type of goals do you set for yourself? Renee stated, "I try to learn as many new tricks as I can. During the competing season, I try to get higher scores than I did in the previous meet. Another BIG goal that I will set is to try to make it to state."

Demers said the reason she went out for the team was because she had a lot of fun and because she had been competing as a gymnast since she was twelve.

Senior Barbara Reik said that she has been interested in gymnastics for a long time. "I have been interested in gymnastics for 9 years, but during the last 5 years I have learned the most. I feel you have to be bad to get good, and there's always a place you've got to start from." All the girls agreed that closeness of the team was important. They thought the team worked well together, and they thought it was an outstanding season.

COYMNASTS LOADED WITH LOADINGTOOL

ong workouts made it a long season for the boys Gymnastics team. During these, the team members had a chance to improve on their Ir. Olympic Compulsory and optional routines. There were three main categories in Jr. Olympic Compulsory, which were: Advanced Beginner, Intermediate, and Advanced. The stunts executed in these included press handstands, round offs, back hand springs, aerials, side tumbling and a variety of scales and balance moves. The optional routines were somewhat different from the Ir. Olympic ones because they give the person a chance to create his own routine using the five pieces of equipment. Floor exercise, pommel horse, still rings, parallel bars and horizontal bars are all used in giving a good routine.

Another factor which made for an exciting season for the boys gymnastics team was the returning lettermen matched with the fresh, new talent of incoming underclassmen. The members who really pulled the team together and gave their strongest efforts of the season were: Skip Rice, John Alvarez and Vince Cannon.

According to Coach Bishop, the boy's gymnastics team was "loaded with potential." Bishop has been a coach for a total of 12 years and this is the second year for him at Santa Rita. This year was also the teams best year. "The kids were excited and worked hard," Bishop commented. All this resulted in a winning season.

EXPERIENCE TIELPS SOFT-BALL TEAMS

oach Dunlap stated after three years of coaching Varsity Softball, "that the team had their ups and downs, but over all, the team has experienced tremendous growth, also I feel for the first time this year there has been a genuine team effort with a team attitude." Senior Carrie Gurr played three years on the varsity team, and commented the team improved in attitude and in experience over the years she played.

The team started with thirteen players, ended the season with nine and placed third in the eastern divisionals.

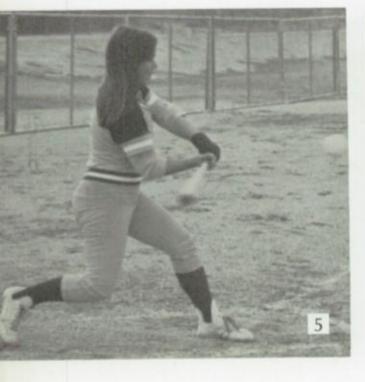

Laura Jo Husk coached the B team for its second year. Coach Husk replied, "that it did not go as she had predicted. We are a lot more skilled than last year, but it's our lack of experience and concentration which has cost us a couple of games," she added to say, "she would like to see more fans at the games and the record isn't an indicator of the quality team we have." Sophomore Laura Mascarenas replied, "I think that we had many strong players this year but we had trouble getting together to play as a team."

ATTITUDE BRINGS TEAMS SENTECOT

pirit, competitiveness, and sportsmanship were team assets. Coach Westfall stated, "Attitude is a major plus for us. They believe in themselves and what they are doing."

Of sixty-three potential swimmers starting the season only thirty-five remained on the team and of the fourteen potential divers twelve remained. Coaching the team were Craig Westfall, for the fourth year, and Art Droegemeier, his first year as a swim coach.

Practice for the 1979 season started at the end of January and continued through May. The two teams practiced together at Rolling Hills six days a week, weekdays from 3:00 until 1:00. During March and April the swimming and diving teams participated in ten meets. Divisionals and State were held in May.

This was Beth Mooney's fourth year representing Santa Rita's swim team and her ninth year swimming. Beth thought team attitude was "really good because of the way we all work together and try to help each other."

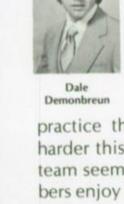

This was also Dale Demonbreun's fourth year representing Santa Rita and his seventh year swimming. Dale thought that attitude would help a lot this year because "when people get to practice they work hard. People are working harder this year and the members of this year's team seem to be more committed." Both members enjoy the competition.

MIW OT SINIOUS TO WIN

ith 26 girls on the team, Santa Rita was expected to have a good season. The amount of girls that go out for track has not changed much since Santa Rita opened in 1968-69.

The track team practiced 3 to 5 hours each day. Coach Judy Hoefer helped the girls as much as she could to get them ready for the first track meet which was held March 1st at Santa Rita H.S.

When junior Monica Bailey was asked what type of goals she set for herself, she stated "I want to go to state this year and win first place in the mile relay, long jump, and 100 yard dash. " Monica has been running in track since 4th grade. She feels that if the team works well together like one big family, it will help a lot when the meets begin.

Kelly Litviak was also asked what type of goal she sets for herself and she stated, "I give 100% of myself all the time to make a name for myself in the sport." Kelly has been interested in track ever since third grade. She also loves track because of the competition and because she likes to keep her body in good shape.

All in all, Santa Rita still continues to show everyone that we are still #1. Without coaches like Dolores Orosco and Judy Hoefer, it probably wouldn't be possible.

A IDATION IN PACTOR IN

OHICHICK

There were over eighty members, two managers and two coaches. The majority of the team was experienced and were returnees from last year.

The team had many strong points. "It will be a complete team effort to do good and score high in all the meets," Coach Bland replied. He also added, "We have strong men in almost every event, and we are trying to get everyone in the action and to improve. Our main goal is to make sure everyone improves."

The relays teams both returned from last year, as did many distance runners and sprinters.

Tommy Ansberry

Tommy Ansberry, a sophomore on the team, ran long distance for over five years and hopes to continue in the future. His goals were to break last year's records and to keep on improving throughout the year. When Tommy Ansberry was asked about the team's outcome he replied, "There are a lot of improvements from last year. I think we are going to be rated among the top in the state this year."

Walter Haywood

Senior Walter Haywood ran sprints and competed in the long jump. He was confident about the outcome of the season. He stated, "I know we will take first in state and win everything that comes our way. Our relay teams, sprinters, distance men and, well, the whole team will do great. We have the most experienced team ever. Since there are a lot of seniors on the team, and it is our last year, we are all going to do great!"

The track team had a successful start with their win over Rincon. They took ten first places against Rincon. Louie Henderson won both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Kevin Keith won the mile and Tommy Ansberry the two mile. Carl Kother received first place in the high hurdles. Both relay teams won as did all the field events. Coach Bland was pleased with the results, but hoped for better times at the next meet.

OPTIMISTIC YOLLYBALL TEAM LOOKS AMEAD TO NEXT YEAR

ven though the Varsity Volleyball team ended their season with a losing record, they were very optimistic.

The team ended their season with a record of 3-8. Varsity coach Irma Piccone was optimistic at the year's end because of the youth of the team. The team included three sophomores and eight juniors. There were only three returning varsity players, Lisa Lester, Barbara Raymond and Kim Rowley. Barbara Raymond was player on the varsity team that showed the best overall effort and attitude. "I think that this year was a learning year for the team. I feel that the experience we gained this year as a team will really benefit us next year," said Raymond. Coach Piccone thought the team was strongest in defensive skills and needed improvement in individual skills and team confidence. The "B" team ended their season with a record of 6-4. Coach Dolores Orosco was pleased with the outcome of the season. Coach Orosco thought the team was strongest in their ability to play together as a team and needed work on playing more aggressive ball. Diana Boswell was chosen by Orosco as a player on the "B" team that showed the best overall effort and attitude. "I think that our team played well together. We were able to pull ourselves out of a slump by pulling together as a team."

This years varsity team was composed of thirteen wrestlers. Six Seniors, five Juniors, and two Sophomores, Wrestlers competed in weight classes ranging from ninety-eight pounds to heavyweight. McKinney stated, "Even though wrestling is an individual effort on the mat, each wrestler needs the support of all the team members to bring out their best effort."

The team competed in regular season matches against other Tucson Schools, District One and the Flowing Wells Invitational tournaments. Steve Turley

Senior John Jurich felt that the team improved this year. He commented, "On the whole our team was very young and inexperienced this year. We worked hard and found out what our mistakes were. There is no doubt that we improved."

Sophomore Steve Turley felt that the team will be much improved next year. He stated, "Our J.V. and Freshman team did very well. We have people coming back to wrestle at the varsity level next year." Turley also stated, "I think we need more support from the student body and teachers."

McKinney felt that the overall team attitude was good. "Even though it is hard to stay up when the season doesn't go as planned, you just take it as it comes and do your best."

or the 56 members of the wrestling team, every weekday after school meant three hours of wrestling practice. The practices were "agony" as both Larry Jeffers and Tim Thomas phrased it. The dedication the wrestling team showed in attending the practice was evident in both the Freshman and Junior Varsity season.

The coaches this year were Mike McKinney, Junior Varsity coach, and Larry Rogge, Freshman coach. When Coach McKinney was asked, "How does wrestling benefit most players?" he said, "It basically increases confidence and brings the team to top physical shape. It enables a student to learn how to handle his limits, in success and failure. Also, it helps the student set goals."

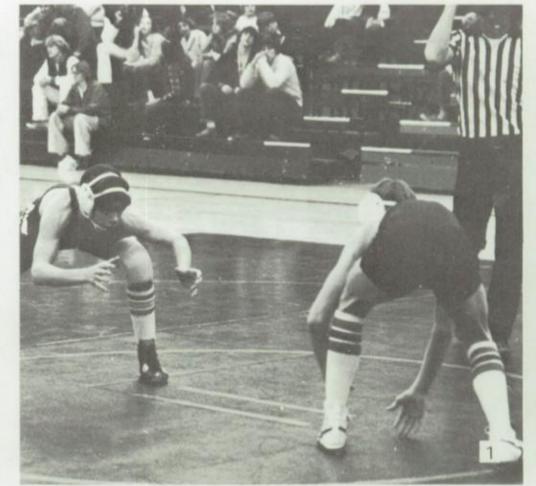

When Tim Thomas was asked what the teams goals were, he said, "We all try to stay together and help each other out." When he was asked if the wrestling team was what he had expected it to be, he said, "I liked it a lot, I had a really good time, and I learned a lot. Next year should be even better." This was Jeffers first year on the team, but has plans to wrestle for the next three years.

When asked what he enjoyed most about wrestling this year, Jeffers commented, "The best thing about wrestling is winning." Jeffers felt that the wrestling team helped him a lot. He stated, "It keeps you in good shape, you also get to know people from Santa Rita and other schools. Wrestling also helped me learn sportsmanship." Both team members agreed that the practices were hard, but they both realized that the practices were worth the pain, in order for them to have a good team.

Seniors Strive To Reach Goals

he last and final year for seniors was led on by eight student council members. They were Tony Richardson, President; Ceci Miranda, Vice President; Mary Beth Crowley, Secretary; Sheryl Aarstadt, Debbie Harrold, Candy McCoy and Susan Palacios, Councilpersons.

Tony Richardson gave his opinion of how the year went by stating, "Seniors have really done a good job. Starting out the year was hard, but with co-operation we brought about some very productive events."

Just a few of the activities seniors got involved in were fund raisers such as button sells, and car washes; however, seniors kept up their spirit by participating in the traditional events such as homecoming, turkey day and spirit week. The three main projects for seniors were organizing the Junior-Senior Prom, the Senior Trip, and preparing for the night of graduation.

Over these past four years we have been through times which will be treasured for the rest of our lives. However, we must not forget that these are only memories; Our lives must move on. If we use the past four years of schooling as stepping stones for the future and make every moment one to remember, our next few years will be as fulfilled as our high school memories.

Knowledge Gives Self Assurance

they had in their freshman year, they come to realize how immensely their knowledge and understanding has grown in just a matter of four short years.

The most important thing for many of us during our freshman year was to have the image of being "cool". Fortunately, many of us have developed self-assurance and leadership qualities that made us realize that that image was no longer of any importance.

Success depended not only on our individual performances but through our proper leadership and cooperation. These were just a few things that led us to gain maturity.

Now as we remember the years, we realize that high school was one of the most important times in our lives. It helped us to learn more about our own self as well as how to get along with other types of people. From the first year as a freshman up until now, we had the chance to acquire several kinds of friends. Many of these have resulted in life long friendships.

Though many students did not find an interest or the time to become involved in the wide range of extra curricular activities, just the everyday classroom routine gave students the opportunity to make new friends and stay busy.

Planning a Part of New Responsibilities

s the years in high school have gone by they have seemed to become more difficult. Who would have imagined that one's senior year would be the hardest? There was so much to plan for and so many new responsibilities.

For some, job hunting was found of great importance, while for others it was the filling out of college applications. There were always those frightening thoughts of what to do after school was over. It was like starting a whole new life.

Many have found their years of high school good academically in their plans for the future. Now that we were seniors several of us found if we were given the chance to start our high school years over, one of the few things we would do differently would be to take school more seriously, rather than waiting for our senior year to really take an interest and work.

As the days started to narrow down, there were always mixed emotions. The feeling that school was finally over, and the thought of leaving old friends was frightening.

Looking back on what was learned and the fun that was had, we come to know that all the pain and unpleasantness was worth it.

Activities Help Students Pursue Future

ooking back at all the colorful memories can be quite an experience. Yearbooks play a significant role in this.

One finds their first love at high school who later becomes an enemy. Best friends are made and also taken away. Driver's licenses are earned and first cars bought.

With this in mind, high school reveals one's hope for the future. Usually in one's senior year, one is driven to a certain track where they may pursue a future. Throughout the course of life these tracks will change many times. When the class of '79 were freshmen, they probably never dreamed of ending up with a class this big. Also, one probably never thought of being a school president, photographer, athlete or reporter. Most of these changes were started in their junior year and then excelled in their senior year.

Participating in clubs was exciting. Club activities included traveling, bowling, skiing, and enjoying others.

Being an athlete during high school can bring many honors. During one's freshman year, a numeral indicating the year of graduation was given. This is usually the first step in becoming a "jock". Sophomores usually earn junior varsity letters and varsity letters are earned in junior and senior years. In the future, letters can be remembered with great pride.

For one who is not an athlete, there is still plenty to remember. Events such as sports, dances, and assemblies were important. We will remember students who were close and those who weren't. Exam days will be looked back upon as being full of tension.

These are some of the memories the class of 1979 will have when referring to their high school years.

Teachers Prepare Students For College

s seniors have gone from year to year they have come in contact with several different types of teachers. Though there are a few who had little concern for the student, the majority of them truly cared about the student's well-being.

Those teachers who did have an honest concern were always willing to help with any problems the student had. They weren't only there to discuss school troubles but often times helped with family, career, and just about any other problem.

The friendships shared with teachers were very special. They were unlike the friendships with fellow students and sometimes even closer. A teacher could always be counted on when your other friends let you down.

Registration became easier throughout the final years. Seniors had the chance to register before the underclassmen which usually guaranteed getting the classes they wanted. The student's familiarity with the teachers helped to ease matters as well. Seniors knew about most of the teachers either by being their student once or having a friend who once had them.

Teachers, even those who maybe weren't your favorites, have added a great deal to your high school years.

Memories will remain for years any seniors feel that independence plays an important part in learning and growing as an individual.

When senior Alan Henceroth was asked if Santa Rita encourages independence as well as preparing students to live on their own he replied, "I think that Santa Rita helped me in a lot of ways towards becoming independent, but there was a lot that I had to figure out for myself that I didn't learn in the classroom."

Senior Linda Wagganer feels that "Learning is more than just working in a classroom." Pam Swadner seemed to feel as Linda did when she stated, "The most important thing that Santa Rita taught me was how to get along with people, and that's pretty important when you get out on your own."

When senior, Tony Manning was asked what was the highlight of his senior year, replied, "Participating on our football team." Another reply was, "Being the director of the Martin Luther King Program," said Dede Meyers. "Playing the lead role in The Diary of Anne Frank, and being accepted to college." The most popular answer from seniors was graduating.

Graduation For 550 Seniors

S triving to reach goals was what a large majority of us were doing over the past four high school years.

Graduation in June for 550 seniors in the class of "79" marked the end of Santa Rita's tenth year. The past years have included an era of short mini skirts to the present disco fashions. A few short years from now we will look back and laugh at the crazy things we did, the fashions we once thought of as beautiful will be hilarious looking, and the moments that seemed sad will come to accept new meanings, perhaps even have a funny side to them.

Different members of the senior class had various views of goal setting. Some students felt that high school was a waste of time and took the easiest classes just to get them over with, not working towards any certain type of future; where others took classes that would benefit them in years to come.

For many, getting involved played a large part in school, it made education enjoyable and gave them a chance to get to know and understand other people. Now that high school is over several seniors are regretting that they did not get involved sooner, because they missed out on a big part of the fun. But as the saying goes, "We learn from our mistakes."

here are not many words that can possibly describe or explain what it is like to be a senior. The only way anyone can ever know is by being one or having been one. There is a certain craziness and a certain sadness surrounding your last year in high school.

Often, seniors are reminded of the many lasts that occur throughout the year. Our last homecoming as a member of the student body in which seniors were awarded first and then second in the float competition. The last football game where we threw streamers and tons of confetti and screamed until we were hoarse and somehow hope the night would never end, but it still did. The last Turkey Day seniors tied for first place with the freshmen and took first place in the trash clean up week by filling up their designated trash can. The class of '79 also participated in the canned food drive during the holiday season. "Thank you Janitors" posters were put up around the school by the seniors commending the janitors for the large role in keeping Santa Rita clean.

Another major last event in the life of a senior, which also included the juniors, was Santa Rita's annual prom. The prom was a night filled with fun, and all of the best luck that there possibly is, a night that started early and ended as late as possible. It was a night to remember.

Last Year Approaches Suddenly

inally, there's all the "lasts" that wind up the completion of high school—the Honors Assembly, and Baccalaureate which were held in the auditorium. Students who received special awards or special recognition were honored for their work.

Then the biggest "last" which is also one of the biggest "firsts" in our lives: graduation. Graduation was always a thing you heard of and saw, but never thought was actually going to happen to you; because afterall, being a senior was for other people, wasn't it? It was, until this year, and suddenly you realize that you are a senior, you are going to graduate, and where did the time go?

You remember back in the third grade when you were eight years old and being a senior and 17 years old was such a long way off. Suddenly, such a long way off is today and you don't really feel so old.

Some things that you might not have done that you thought were part of high school life include visiting the dean, falling up or down the stairs, riding the elevator, getting up the nerve to eat a hot lunch, ditching classes and not getting caught, ditching classes and getting caught, and finally, getting buzzed in the library. You decide that the nearest thing to bliss is having no homework to do. We as seniors did what we could, all trying to create our own little niche in this place—no small feat with such a large student body.

hen seniors part they leave behind many memories. The money left from their class is usually spent wisely. It may be given to the freshmen class or may be used to buy something for the school.

They leave emotions and tension behind. People might remember someone as being a great athlete, photographer or maybe just by having a big mouth.

Freshmen and sophomores can admit to themselves and others that they were never afraid of the upperclassmen since they are leaving.

Teachers are often sorry that seniors leave because they often have the most experience in an event or activity. Teachers do not always like breaking in beginners. They tend to like teaching the experienced students more.

Friends might remember someone as being clown of the class, homecoming queen, or cutest person around. The little things are usually remembered the greatest.

Most seniors do try to stay in touch. Telephones and letters are the favorite ways of keeping in touch if friends live a long distance away from each other.

Yearbooks are signed as friends part. Thoughts of the four years at high school are collected and sorted out.

Reunions are often held years later in which everyone talks about the "good old days."

Class Ring and Prom Expensive

class ring is one of many significant things in one's senior year. The majority of seniors show somewhat of an interest but only about fifty percent of them actually invest in them. Class rings range from seventy dollars on up, with some of the more expensive rings having more symbols of status.

The stone in the center varies in color. A variety of choices are offered and made available. On the band one can order the school mascot, and eagle, or whatever is affordable.

The girls have the opportunity to choose a more feminine ring if it is preferred over the other. The band on this ring is slender, but often too slim to fit anything on the side of it. Most girls, however, do buy the traditional class ring.

One night of great importance to seniors is the prom. All those hard earned dollars are spent. For the guy it is a tuxedo. It can be rented for approximately forty to fifty dollars. It is probably the first tuxedo for many of the guys. For the girls it is a long formal. This ranges from forty dollars on up. The prom is a night that many seniors will remember.

NOROX OF ON

t's hard to cram four years of experiences into a few pages in a book. For instance, how can you put into words the affliction of seniors every year which, in its own form, affects the entire student body of Santa Rita? It is often called Senioritis. It is recognized by sudden laughing attacks, and other similar strange episodes throughout the school.

After three years of suffering, which was not really that bad after all, you arrive at the top. The top being a senior, and being a senior means you can look down on almost everybody—unless, of course, your freshmen brother happens to be five inches taller than you. Being a senior means occasionally driving to school, riding with friends or even in moments of desperation, riding the bus which is considered degrading and for lower classmen. It means getting out of school early for some, and jobs for others. Jobs were a big step towards independence.

In graduating, we traded the comfort and security of high school for the independence and responsibility of adulthood.

Treasured Times Recalled

ithout friends, spirit activities, clubs, organizations, sports, dedicated teachers and various other events, Santa Rita would not have been the unique school it is.

One advantage of being a senior was being able to look back and remember the events that played such an important part in our lives, As seniors we have experienced many things. Often times we forget about the small happenings that have had an impact on our lives. Although each individual has special memories stored in a certain place, there are always a few treasured times that do slip away and are forgotten about.

Maybe you will recall the car washes and the way you somehow got wetter than the automobile you were washing. Or maybe even the simple joy you had buying a mum or boutonniere for a good friend or loved one will be kept along with other memories for years to come.

These and many other activities will stay within us for years, and then we will be reminded of how important they actually were.

uniors, at one time or another, asked themselves, "What does being a Junior mean?" To most, being a Junior means being an upperclassman for the first time in your life, or being an underclassman for the last time. It means planning to graduate in 1980.

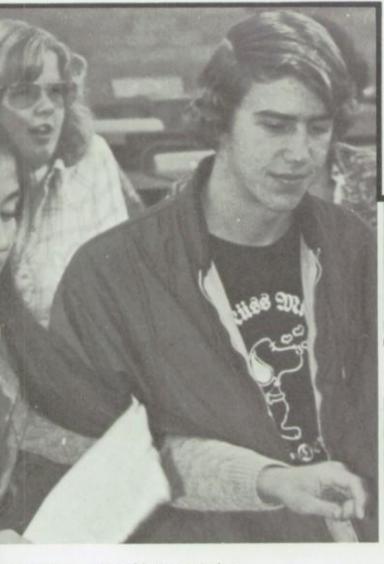

Most Juniors kept busy with school, hoping to lighten the load of school work next year. The Juniors also raised funds for the prom and their first-place homecoming float.

The Class of "80" consisted of 621 students (314 girls, 307 guys) who worked with Miss Linda Cole and Mr. David Honeycutt, as advisors.

unior year for the class of 1980 was considered a success by all. It all began with Homecoming, and the prize-winning Junior float. Although the constant rain delayed the arrival time and took its toll on the float, the Junior class still managed to virtually pull it through when the engine broke.

The class officers were Jerri Allen, president; David Campas, vice-president; Yolanda Benevidas, secretary; Lisa Ditmarr, Sherri Hielman, Sherri Cano, and Karen Lawrence, council persons. Two of the council persons, Sherri Cano and Karen Lawrence, were elected at the first of the year.

he Juniors, working with the sophomores, came in first place in the Turkey Day competition working against the Freshmen and Seniors. Junior Ty Mattingly was crowned Mr. Turkey with Suzanne Vindiola as his Mrs. Turkey.

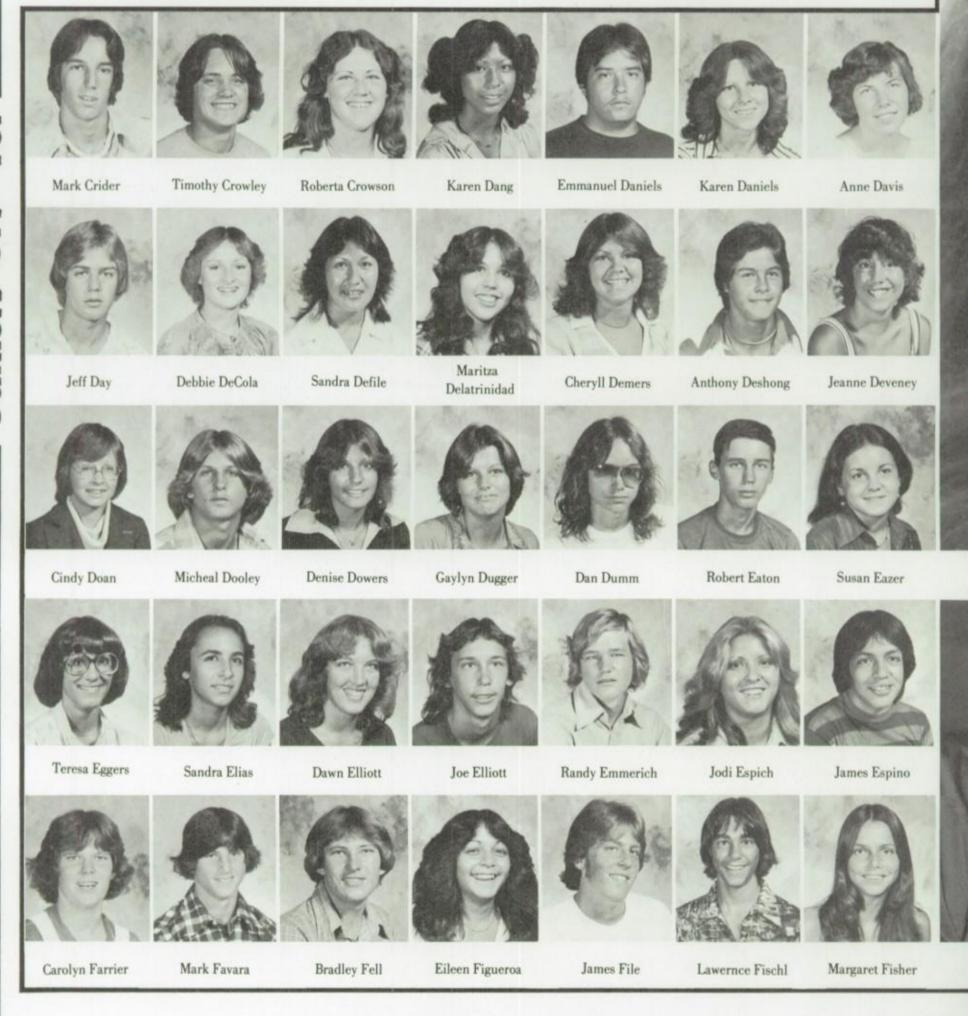

Turkey Day is held annually on the last day before Thanksgiving Vacation. Turkey Day was attended by only 50 people. Games and activities, including "Blow Out Your Brains" and "Scrambled Eggs" were enjoyed by all. "Blow Out Your Brains" is played by blowing up a balloon, and then sitting on it until it pops. Some of the games were slightly more complex, but the Class of "80" did well.

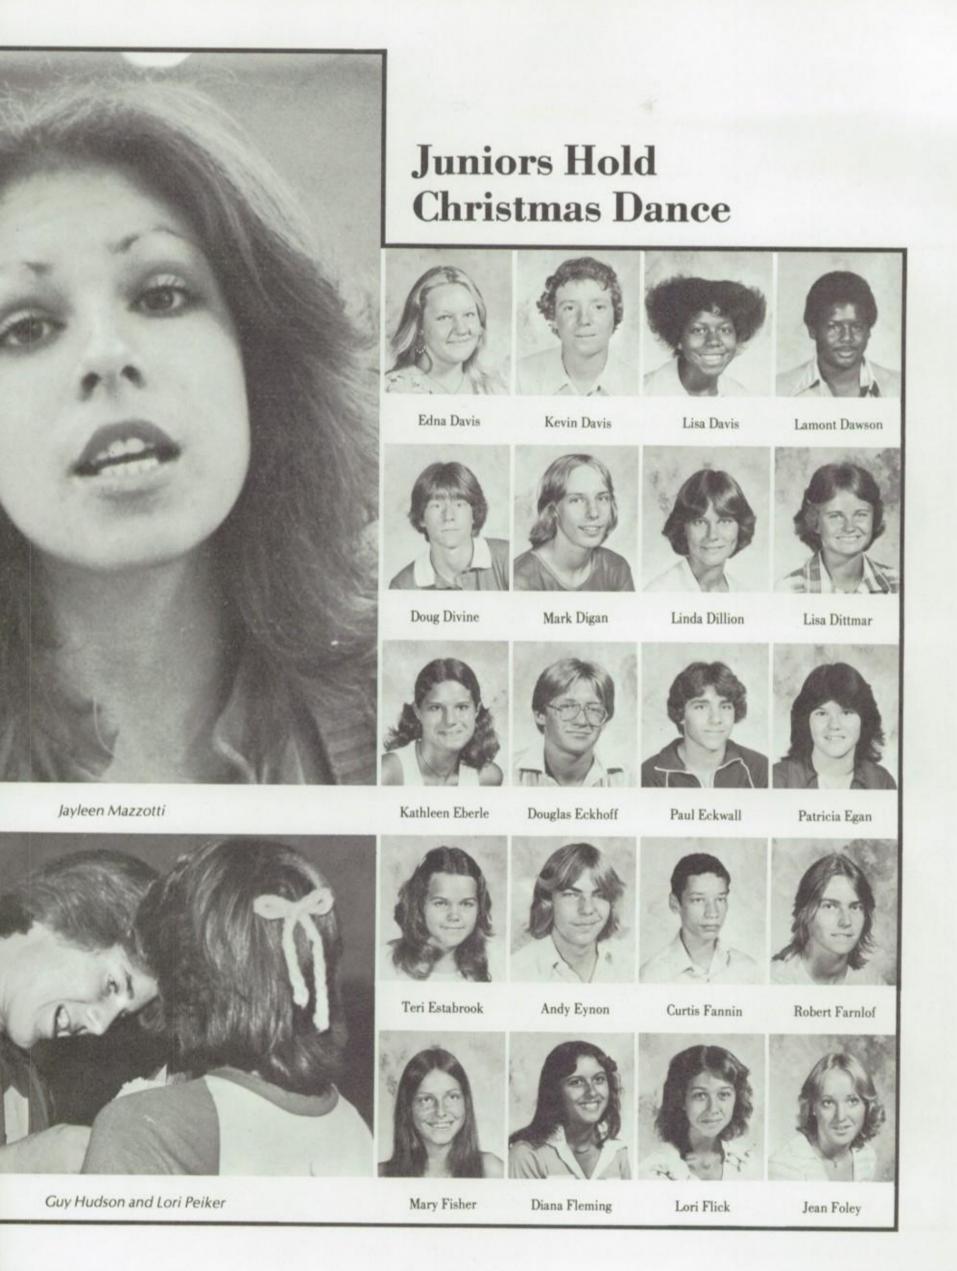

he Christmas Dance was a success, and a failure. The Juniors sponsored the dance held December 8, 1978 from 8:00 to 11:00. Jerri Allen, Junior Class President, said, "I feel the dance was a success as far as participation is concerned." The participation of those present was outstanding, but few people were inclined to go that night, because of an away basketball game and the cold weather.

Financially, the dance was a disaster. Just to have the dance, four people—two policemen, one bookstore employee, and the engineer—were needed and paid overtime.

Spirit is a kind of touchy subject. If you ask Junior, Michelle Murphy about it, she would tell you that there isn't enough of it to go around. "People just don't know how much time and effort our athletes put into their practices each day." Junior, Debbie Brackett, a pom, has different ideas. "Personally, I thought the Juniors showed a lot of class spirit."

r. O'Donald, a Chemistry teacher at S.R. for the past ten years has this to say about spirit, "This year's spirit is much better than last year—if you consider support of athletes spirit."

Until Christmas vacation, the sale of candy at schools was banned. Immediately after vacation, the Juniors capitalized on this change, and held an M & M's sale. Jerri Allen, Junior class president commented concerning this candy sale, "The Juniors are making substantial amounts of money to help with the Prom." Fifty cases of M & M's were ordered, containing forty-five individual boxes each.

pirit activities filled many spare hours for members of the Sophomore class. With Homecoming, Turkey Day, and Trash Stash Week, filling the time before Christmas, and Spirit Week and the Spring Carnival after Christmas, the days were busy. As the end of the year drew near the days became busier. These busy school days made the year go by quickly.

n important factor of the Sophomore class' structure was its student government. Being elected at the end of the 1978 school year, they prepared for the year to come over the summer. The 1979 Sophomore class saw many officers returning to serve, in different seats. The officers held several meetings to inform class members and to collect suggestions.

Goals Reached Through Leadership

n the election held at the end of 1978, Francine Pechnik was chosen as president for the class of 81. Lourdes DeLaTrinidad as vice-president, Suzanne Vindiola as secretary, and councilpersons Rudann Hanks, Joni Nielson, Kelly Randels, and Lourdes Sirvas. With the leadership of these people, the class of 81 reached many of its goals and found new ones to aim for.

pirit was the key to success for the Sophomore class. Sophomores throughout Santa Rita were asked what they thought of the class of 81's spirit. Of the Sophomores asked, most thought that the spirit was getting better. Sophomore Nancy VanNimwegen summed it all up when she said, "The spirit this year was better than last year and will be even better next year."

Float Main Event for Homecoming

ear the end of September, a great deal of time was spent working on the float. During the third week of October many lunchtime and afterschool activities were held to promote spirit for the Homecoming game. By conducting carwashes and bakesales money was raised to pay for the class of 81's float.

uring the first two weeks of December, an unusual event called "Trash Stash Week" took place on Santa Rita's campus. With the aid of Student Council, Santa Rita students were having contests to see who could collect the most trash. Garbage cans were scattered throughout the campus for each class. The Sophomores placed 2nd in this contest.

Dressing up Accentuates Spirit

he second week of February was designated as "Spirit Week." Students showed their spirit by dressing up each day in the assigned attire. While walking down Santa Rita's halls you could expect to see anything from Cowboys to Cupids. On February 16th a spirit assembly was held. Students wore Green and Gold clothes to accentuate their spirit even more.

Striving to reach goals proved to be a challenge for the freshman class. Freshmen were faced with a complete new environment which allowed more freedom than Junior High. They reacted to the change with a strong determination to make it a memorable year.

The class of 1982 strove to show their spirit by having fund raising activities, such as: car washes and bake sales. In addition to this the freshmen showed their enthusiasm by participating in the float competition during Homecoming. With these activities and others, the freshmen continued to show Eagle pride.

School is not merely a building. It is a conglomeration of students, teachers, administrators and staff. Although the students comprise the majority of a school, they are not the most important factor. The students are influenced by the teachers, and therefore the teachers are the ones who prepare the students to face the challenges of life.

Santa Rita had 134 teachers, 73 female, and 61 male. 115 were returning teachers, and 19 were new here. The teachers were divided into 13 departments. Language Arts was the largest department, with 24 teachers, and the Media Center was smallest, with 2.

All teachers are placed in alphabetical order. Department and number of years teaching at Santa Rita are listed below name. University attended and degree obtained are also stated.

Study Habits A Necessity

es Hastings, the chairman of the Mathematics Department was in charge of responsibilities such as coordinating departmental meeting, and assisting the Principal in the selection, assignment and evaluation of the department. He was assisted this year by 14 faculty members.

Hastings stated "Algebra and geometry have always been difficult, and not more difficult. Good study habits at home and school along with a decent attitude helped the students in this area of study," remarked the chairman. He concluded by saying a good math student should take four years of the subject whether attending college or not, and taking the minimum requirements is not preparing one's self for any career.

The chairman thought the improvements this year could be made in the computer field. Hastings, stated, "Student interest dictates more equipment which, of course, was quite costly. Self-contained units seemed to be the answer to our problem."

Physical Fitness Main Objective

he largest Physical Education Department in the city this year was formed by 18 staff members. The curriculum offerings were broad and varied with a strong supportive administration toward the program. Irma Piccone, chairman of this department, felt the program had a wide enough variety of activities to offer something for everyone. And the idea of substituting an elective course for P.E. should not be allowed.

There had been a nation-wide push toward cardio-vascular fitness. As a department, the faculty recognized the importance of physical fitness as well as the development of skills through sports and dance. As a group, they agreed to emphasize all aspects of fitness in their program. A portion of every class period was spent with physical fitness as one of their main objectives. This was what the chairman felt was the main accomplishment this year.

Lack of Supplies In Classes

Responsible for the Science Department this year was chairman William O'Donald. Working together with him were 12 other faculty members. The department had 13 classes of Science where students were taking more than their minimum requirements, and they might add a second year Earth Science class to their program.

O'Donald felt the budget didn't cover the amount of equipment or supplies needed for classroom use. He explained, "We have never had enough supplies for each classroom. Supplies must be carried back and forth between rooms. It was always a problem to find the supplies at any one time during the year. I am sure some labs are not attempted for the above reason."

The chairman was asked what he thought the main goal of the department was. He replied to the question by saying, "I hope that we have helped students learn how to make a reasonable choice as well as learn how we relate to the environment."

Elective Classes Provide Benefits

Santa Rita, there had been no specific impact in the Social Studies Department. Chairman Avery Miller, along with 11 other faculty members, made up this department. They have been increasing the number of different types of materials being made available for the students such as texts, filmstrips, and pamphlets.

The chairman was asked what his views on the elective classes for Social Studies were. Avery Miller replied, "Elective classes provide additional areas of study, over and above the regular curriculum." He continued to say, "Educationally, in my opinion, they are beneficial for those students who want to do something different or get away from the 'traditional' approach to required subjects. If a student selects an elective class, it should follow that attendance would not be a problem."

Home Economics Progressing Well

S ue Peterson, head of the depart-ment of Homemaking, together with two other faculty members had revised the course offerings to more fully meet the needs of the students. Peterson commented, "We seem to be progressing quite well. The department received replacement equipment each year to replenish supplies lost to theft and general wear and tear. We also wish more males felt comfortable in taking Home Economic classes."

Representing the department of Adaptive Education was chairman Harriet Johnson. The department was comprised of nine staff members. The classes were arranged for students who needed assistance in meeting the minimum requirements in high school such as reading and writing.

The chairman was asked, "Have there been any difficulties in the department this year?" She stated, "The biggest problem had been classrooms. We didn't have adequate space for the number of students we are servicing. More classroom space should be provided."

Smaller Class Size Chief Goal

Pleasant, concerned, competent —a group of people who like young people and enjoy working with them," was the reply given by Merle McPheeters, English Department chairman, when asked to comment on his department.

Language Arts had twenty-five faculty members. McPheeters felt one of the main achievements of the year was coming back after the strike and smoothly beginning to teach again. "We healed the wounds suprisingly quickly," he added.

Each student at Santa Rita had different interests, and the department tried its best to suit those needs by providing English elective courses such as Media, Poetry, and Shakespeare. "As in any course, the class can be extremely worthwile and beneficial if the student allows the subject to be," explained the chairman.

The goal the faculty strived for was the reduction of class size dropped to twenty. Unfortunately, they didn't reach it, but they did hire an additional teacher to keep class load down.

No Conflicts From Strike

uring the month of October, the teachers' strike took place. But this had little effect on the Fine Arts Department, which was made up of seven faculty members. Vonda Watson, chairman of the department responded to this subject matter by saying, "There had been no hostile or resentful feelings that I am aware of because we all came back and simply picked up classes where we left off, whether department members were striking or not. We all work rather independently, and there was no reason for prolonging conflicts."

In recent years, the department has added several classes on an advanced level as enough students have developed the skills to fill the class. The program this year also provided art courses covering every major craft area such as ceramics, jewelry, and textiles. "The classes were always full, and there was a waiting list for those classes," replied Watson when asked what the students reactions were toward the classes being offered.

Course New In Program

s chairman of the Industrial Arts Department, Bob Witt remarked, "The Industrial Arts had an excellent staff who were well prepared professionally and dedicated to teaching those who are interested."

With only nine faculty members in the department, the increase in students within each class had effected the amount of time each instructor can work with each individual student discussing problems on projects. Also the amount of time that teachers spent with students outside regular class time had decreased in recent years because most students had jobs, participated in after school activities or sports, or rode the bus home.

In the department this year, there were two major accomplishments. One was the updating of equipment within the electronics program, and the other was the establishment of an Alternate Energy course. The chairman thought a continuous updating of curriculum and equipment was what could be improved in the department.

Interest Drops In Language Courses

Realizing that there was a declining interest in the classes which existed throughout the district, the Modern Languages chairman, Dora Mitchell wished more students would take advantage of the many course offerings in the department.

The increase in student population has had no effect on the department. But the budget for the department was tighter this year than last year. Since the language classes were very culturally oriented, the staff members wanted to have more room and equipment for cultural activities added to their program, but they didn't receive any because there no increase in the budget.

Mitchell was responsible for the liaison between the administration and the five staff members in the department. When the strike occurred in the month of October, the classes lost one week of instruction since no qualified substitutes were available. The chairman believed all the Modern Languages teachers worked well together and assisted one another in any way they can.

Striving For Satisfaction

s life travels on, we each make plans for the days ahead. When we achieve these goals we get the pleasure of self satisfaction and contentment. The yearbook staff used the theme STRIVING TO REACH OUR GOALS, in an attempt to capture several of the ambitions of Santa Rita students.

Each school year is unique in some way. One event that made this particular year unlike any other, was our schools tenth anniversary. Throughout this decade year we have been fortunate in having an excellent sports program. Our boy's basketball, cross country and girl's softball teams had a superior season and other sports finished their seasons with outstanding records. We also witnessed a teachers strike which lasted a week. Homecoming was a cold wet event after Tucson had one of the worst rain and snow seasons ever, and how will we ever forget the annual spirit week, turkey day, dress up days and dances, when we all had an opportunity to get involved.

A yearbook is essentially a memory and history book. A book that as the years pass will become more valuable, because memories will have a greater influence. No one can understand the basic production of this yearbook until they have worked to develop it. Trying to sum up this whole year before March 6, proved to be a challenge, as well as require many a long hours and hard work. Our yearbook staff only hopes that the efforts have been worthwhile in making this a book you can be proud of and be a part of.

Striving For Satisfaction

People are always losing people that they love. Many Santa Rita students will continue to cherish fond memories of Michael St. Martine and Donna Clark after their deaths this past year.

Perhaps you will remember some small insignificant incident . . . a laugh that was shared with friends . . . tears shed over a sports defeat . . . the shuffling confusion and clanging of lockers between classes . . . the long hours of study for finals . . . the roar of a student body pep assembly. Perhaps you will recall and regret the endless opportunities you let slip by . . . those times that you retreated rather than advanced . . . moments in which you failed to reach out and give of yourself.

Since time has made it clearer, you will realize how much of your life was influenced by your years at Santa Rita... by that one challenging teacher... by a demanding coach... by an understanding friend... by a distinguished student leader... by spirit and pride in Santa Rita.

I am sure the future holds its own for each of us, and that it will bring everything you strive for in the reaching of your goals. Good Luck to you all!
